Senate Recommits Foreign Aid Bill Oil Strike Leader Will Settle For 18.5 Cents

CIO Willing To Reduce Pay Demand

Denver (AP) — The leader of a striking oil union dropped a broad hint yesterday that the strike could be settled on wage terms well below the union coalition's initial demands.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International, which has its headquarters in Denver, said in a statement: "Anytime an oil company will offer us 18½ cents in cash, the strike at that company's plant would undoubtedly end in a short time."

Knight was commenting on reported terms of a settlement in California involving a union which is not among the 22 CIO, AFL and independent unions which called the strike last Wednesday.

The strike was ordered to back up the unions' demands for a wage increase of 26 cents per hour plus higher extra pay for night work. The current scale averages $2 to $2.10 per hour.

The Los Angeles agreement between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil of California included benefits worth 18½ cents an hour, a union spokesman said.

But at San Francisco, a company official said they figured it amounts to a 15-cent boost. The 5,000 union members have not been on strike.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Interior Chapman said the government is not planning on nationwide rationing of automobile gasoline despite shortages here and there.

Chapman told reporters at New York he was "hopeful of a settlement being reached in a few days. The situation is very serious." He said it was likely a ban might be placed on automobile sports to conserve gasoline.

The government added 26 more states to the previous list of 17 where inventory restrictions on gasoline, kerosene, home-heating oil, diesel fuel and residual fuel oil were put into effect last Thursday. The order left only Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Arizona free from the limitation provisions.

The Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) already has ordered a 30-per cent cut in gasoline for civil aviation purposes, effective at 4:01 a. m. today.

Earlier, the U. S. Air Force ordered a reduction in training flights to stretch its supplies of high octane fuel, the kind which motorists can't use in their automobiles.

Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of PAD, said gasoline rationing "would take too long to set up." Chapman said he agrees. The strike involves almost 90,000 union members. Knight estimated that 45 per cent of the nation's refineries, including some of the world's largest, have been closed.

Among those on hand to greet the supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty nations were Randolph Pacciardi, Italian defense minister and Gen. Elio Maras, Italian chief of staff.

Looking fit but tired, Eisenhower commented to newsmen "all I have to say is I'm glad to be here." An aide said he will hold a news conference today.

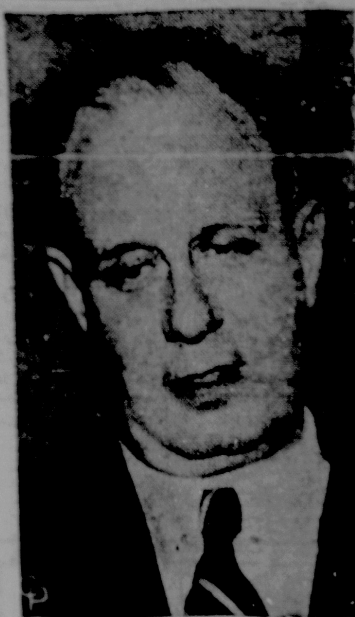

At Udine, the general was greeted by a score of generals and 10,000 Italian troops representing five divisions.

New York (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch's series on corruption in the Internal Revenue Department yesterday won that newspaper its fifth Pulitzer Prize. No other newspaper has ever won that many.

The Post-Dispatch was founded by the late Joseph Pulitzer, for whom the awards are named. In its series the newspaper began an expose of tax officials which resulted in 160 dismissals and resignations throughout the country and a full-scale investigation by Congress of the Revenue Department.

In other departments, Herman Wouk's wartime Navy novel, "The Caine Mutiny," won the 1952 award for fiction while Joseph Kramm's documentary drama, "The Shrike" won the prize for the best stage work.

Morris Knew Of Probes, Witnesses Say

Washington (AP) — Witnesses before a House inquiry committee testified yesterday former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath and Newbold Morris were notified that Morris' law firm was in hot water with the Justice Department before McGrath appointed Morris as federal clean-up chief.

Morris has sworn he never knew he was the target of an investigation—centering on the role played by his law firm in a get-rich-quick deal in U. S. surplus tankers—before he took the clean-up job last Feb. 1.

Similarly, McGrath has testified he knew nothing about any criminal investigation of the tanker deal.

Morris could not be reached immediately for comment on the day's developments. Nor could McGrath.

Peaton Ford, McGrath's former deputy, told a House judiciary subcommittee that when McGrath and Morris discussed the clean-up job last January, they also talked about the tanker case. Morris was appointed as the Truman administration anti-corruption sleuth on Feb. 1. McGrath fired him April 3.

Ford said McGrath told Morris that in taking over the clean-up post he would have to "disqualify" himself from any inquiry touching on the tanker affair because his law firm was involved in the case.

But Ford told the lawmakers: "I never associated Newbold Morris with a criminal investigation. It never went through my mind."

Ford said he and McGrath both regarded Morris' connection with the tanker transactions "as a lawyer representing the companies and not as being personally involved."

The former assistant attorney general said he met Morris and took him to McGrath's home to discuss the appointment as clean-up boss. At that time, he said, the tanker case was "under review" by the Justice Department's Criminal Division but hadn't come up for a full-fledged investigation.

Truman Urges Insurance Against Flood Damage

Washington (AP) — A system of government insurance against flood damage, backed by a $4-billion-dollar fund, was urged upon Congress yesterday by President Truman.

Proposed legislation which Truman sent to Capitol Hill would allow the Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) to issue such insurance directly or to reinsure policies written by private companies.

The RFC initially would be authorized to commit up to 500 million dollars. With presidential approval, it could be increased by 500 million on July 1, 1953, and by a like amount a year later.

"The lack of such an insurance system," Truman said in a special message, "is a major gap in the means by which a man can make his home, his farm, or his business secure against financial loss."

"The reasons for enacting such legislation was very clear. At present, insurance against flood damage is virtually unobtainable from private insurance companies, nor does it seem likely that the private companies by themselves will find it possible to write flood insurance at reasonable rates."

Delegates Meet
Only 15 Minutes

Munson, Korea (AP) — Allied and Communist truce negotiators met for only 15 minutes today. U. N. command spokesman said it was obvious no agreement had been reached.

The session again was held in complete secrecy at Panmunjom. The top-level delegates agreed to meet again tomorrow.

Agency Extends
PP&L Rate Case

Harrisburg (AP) — The Public Utility Commission extended for another three months to August 12 yesterday a proposed $2,730,000-a-year Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. rate increase.

The boost would affect only industrial and commercial users.

Three Gunmen, Including Sutton's Pal, Quizzed In Arnold Schuster Slaying

Providence, R. I. (AP) — New York detectives and postal inspectors moved into Rhode Island yesterday to question three gunmen—trapped in an all-night diner raid—in the slaying of Arnold Schuster and a $29,000 Brooklyn postoffice robbery.

Massachusetts state police collaborated with Providence authorities in nabbing the trio, including Harvey Bistany, 48, once known in boxing circles as the "Syrian Flash," and reputed pal of Willie (The Actor) Sutton, notorious bank robber.

Schuster was riddled with bullets not long after he pointed out Sutton to police. Sutton now is in Sing Sing after a bank robbery conviction.

Providence detectives said the arrest of Bistany and his companions prevented a $70,000 robbery planned for last night at a Newton, Mass., industrial plant.

Wedemeyer Claims MacArthur Has Thrown Support To Taft

By The Associated Press
Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer claimed yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has thrown his support to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

In New York, a MacArthur spokesman said the former Pacific commander knew of Wedemeyer's statement but had no immediate comment.

Wedemeyer told a news conference in Washington that MacArthur called him a week ago and urged him to accept the chairmanship of a national Taft-for-President Citizens' Committee "for the good of the country."

He said that was "quite a clear indication" that MacArthur is supporting Taft.

Wedemeyer, who served as commander of U. S. forces in China late in World War Two, said in announcing his acceptance of the committee chairmanship that he regards Taft as "definitely the best qualified by knowledge and experience" in the field of GOP candidates.

Duff Denies Retiring From Ike Campaign

Washington (AP) — Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.) described yesterday as "vicious, malicious and unforgiving propaganda" a report he said was published over the weekend that he had retired from the Eisenhower campaign.

Duff said in a statement that the report was "falsely published and broadcast across America," but did not say by whom.

Commentator Drew Pearson said in a radio broadcast Sunday night that Duff "has rowed with Governor Dewey of New York and is no longer campaigning for Ike."

"Duff fears that Dewey's unpopularity among certain Republicans will hurt Eisenhower's chances," Pearson said. "And he also blames Dewey for the fact that he hasn't been invited to Paris."

The Paris reference was to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters there in his European defense job. A number of other Republicans have visited Eisenhower in Paris recently.

"The motive for launching so false a rumor is not difficult to understand," Duff said. "It is merely another shot of desperation in an attempted stop-Ike campaign."

Garden City, N. Y. (AP) — A playful little squirt cost Jack Houth $50 yesterday.

From a passing car Sunday, Houth, 24, let fly with a water pistol right in the ear of Patrolman William Hauser. The cop, who didn't think it at all funny, chased the car a mile and arrested him.

District Judge Paul Widitz assessed the fine on a charge of disorderly conduct.

$6.9 Billion Measure Sent To Committee

Washington (AP) — Action on the $6,900,000,000 foreign aid bill came to an abrupt halt yesterday as the Senate voted to send the measure to its Armed Services Committee for 10 days' further study.

The Foreign Relations Committee already has had the bill under consideration for almost two months, and had slashed the original measure by one billion dollars.

The Senate action was taken on a motion by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, and passed 40 to 33. The committee must report back to the whole Senate on May 15.

Knowland said that 70 per cent of the money called for in the bill is directly for military purposes.

Earlier, in debate on Knowland's motion, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee said passage of the motion would "affront and almost insult" his committee after its long consideration.

The aid bill had been up for general debate yesterday, until it was stopped by the victory of the Knowland motion. The California senator said the Armed Services Committee should look into the possibilities of further cuts.

He also said the committee should try to see whether the measure had any effect on America's own rearmament and the re-equipment of American forces.

Knowland added "It is my judgment that if this bill passes in its present form any hope for a balanced budget for the coming year is an impossibility."

Nunan Admits He Could Be Indicted

Washington (AP) — Joseph D. Nunan Jr., former commissioner of internal revenue, told House investigators yesterday he thinks there are "possible crimes" for which he could be indicted.

The acknowledgement came as Nunan sparred with members of a House ways and means subcommittee over details of his six-figure personal income. He refused to answer a series of pointed questions about the sources of it.

After Nunan had cited the fourth, fifth and sixth amendments to the Constitution in support of his position, Adrian Dewind, committee counsel, asked him if he thought there was "any possible crimes for which you could be indicted?"

"Yes, sir, I think there are," Nunan answered, flushing. He did not go into any details.

The House committee, which has spent the last six months digging into a series of tax scandals, has been told by Treasury agents that Nunan received $161,000 in unexplained income between 1945 and 1950 and did not report it on his income tax returns.

Nunan was the nation's chief tax collector from 1944 to 1947.

Strikes Affect Bread, Beer Users

Pittsburgh (AP) — Bread and beer were getting a little scarce in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Local production of both commodities has been interrupted by strikes of brewery workers and bakery drivers.

The bread shortage was called serious. The walkout of 1,800 bakery workers cut output two-thirds in Pittsburgh and five adjacent counties.

Demand is reported exceeding supply for out-of-town bread and beer still available.

All Sides In Steel Dispute Wait Out Supreme Court; Hearings Start Next Week

Washington, AP — The big steel labor dispute remained stuck on dead center last night with negotiations suspended and a solution apparently as far off as ever.

All sides seemed to be waiting for an eventual Supreme Court ruling on the questioned legality of President Truman's steel industry seizure nearly a month ago. It may be weeks before the high court decides the case. Its hearings start next Monday.

The steel industry, meantime, slowly returned to full production of the vital metal after last week's three-day strike. Even though negotiations have collapsed, the men remained at work as their union president, Philip Murray, had promised.

Thirteen Republican senators introduced legislation to direct Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, government boss of the seized industry, to give up the steel plants and return them to their private owners.

Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb.), one of the sponsors, urged early Senate consideration, telling his colleagues the bill "sets forth an expedient method of overcoming the arbitrary seizure of the steel industry." It seemed unlikely, however, that the Senate would act while the issue is before the Supreme Court.

Some grumbling was heard in the mill towns about lack of a wage settlement after more than five months of negotiations with the government and industry.

Several union officials spoke of either "ignoring government seizure and shutting down the plants" or conducting slowdowns. But other leaders said "We'll sit tight until the Supreme Court rules."

Any strike now with seizure still legally in effect, could be enjoined by the courts, since the workers are technically government employees and as such are barred from striking.

Ridgway Coming Home Next Week

Tokyo (AP) — U. S. Far East Command headquarters announced today that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway would leave Japan for the United States at 3 p. m. on Monday, May 12.

Ridgway will leave from Haneda Airport aboard his private plane and will make a short stop at Hawaii before reaching San Francisco.

The announcement said Ridgway will remain in the United States until May 24 when he will leave for France and his new assignment as supreme Allied commander, Europe SHAPE.

Fleischmann Urges Extended Controls

Washington (AP) — The administrator of the defense production program told a House committee yesterday American industry is growing new muscle fast but cannot yet do without materials controls crutches.

Marly Fleischmann, speaking before the House Banking Committee, said "It is only by a continuation of flexible but effective controls that an adequate flow of materials to essential defense programs can be maintained during the next 18 months or longer."

Veteran Officer At Covered Bridge Retains Last Coin Passed As Toll Back In '27

Portland — Charles J. Newbaker of this community celebrated the 35th anniversary of his appointment as a special officer on duty at the old covered bridge across the Delaware River.

A toll bridge when Newbaker began his duties, the veteran officer recalls collecting for ten years from motorists, who were assessed 25 cents a round trip and 20 cents one-way. The horse and wagon paid the same charge, but the special commuters were granted a 50 cents-a-month fee.

When the bridge commission took over operations in 1927, Newbaker was determined to retain a coin as a memento, and when the final car passed the bridge the officer substituted his own coin and pocketed the souvenir.

Despite exceptionally high waters that have threatened to destroy the landmark over the years, the bridge remains intact. And many of the experiences are recorded in the memory of the veteran bridge officer.

In spite of guarding the span's flow of traffic for 35 years, Newbaker maintains today that each passing day is entirely different from those previous. Bulletins from State police still inform the officer to be alert for stolen cars or escaped criminals and the duty of halting speeding cars still goes on for this officer on a bridge that remains as one of the masterpieces of construction and the object find of many vacationers.

At 49 miles above the earth the temperature reaches 170 degrees above zero, says the National Geographic Society.

Gottier Ribbon Mills Specializing In Silk

The fifteenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A young German veteran of Hitler's army during World War Two was at the office of Gottier Ribbon Mills, Inc., at 40 N. Second St., Stroudsburg, when The Daily Record reporter called for a story on the textile mill's activities.

Robert Gottier, president of the concern, listened intently as 26-year-old Dieter Rosenkrantz explained in broken English the operational phases of an automatic quill winder he was selling in this country.

Maurice J. Lacey, Philadelphia representative of the American concern handling the German equipment, made the preliminary introductions and explained that Rosenkrantz was quite young when he served with the Nazi Army.

Gottier, who has been in the textile business in Stroudsburg since 1924 and moved to the present location, formerly the Stanford Silk Mill, in 1940, announced to the German salesman he had been in Switzerland only four years ago and proceeded to quiz the young, blonde six-footer on the outstanding points of the machine he was attempting to sell.

The American go-between, Lacey, volunteered that Rosenkrantz arrived in this country just eight days ago after spending five months in England. "You will notice he has an English accent," Lacey remarked.

Special emphasis was placed by Rosenkrantz on the money that could be saved by purchasing one of his machines, stating one Philadelphia manufacturer cut his cost from 24 cents a pound to four and a half by using the German equipment.

Gottier, who employs 19 persons at its own plant and another 26 work for Stroud Ribbon Co., a commission concern for Gottier who occupy the same building in the rear, said his principal product presently being manufactured is ribbon made from Japanese silk. He has had the plant doing this type work for the past four years, after first seeing a sample sent from Switzerland. Each week one or two bales of the Japanese goods, each weighing about 125 pounds, arrive for the operation at the local plant, Gottier explained.

While work at the plant here consists only of quilling, warping and weaving, the ribbon is dyed by other firms not affiliated with Gottier in Allentown, Bethlehem and Paterson, N. J., and then distributed for sale to dressmakers and tailoring concerns.

When the ribbon leaves the plant here it varies in width from three-sixteenths of an inch to one and five-eighths, and the rolls contain either 50 or 100 yards.

Gottier, commenting on the textile recession, said the future presently seems uncertain and was not too optimistic. To date, in 1952, the plant has closed down only one week due to over-production and little demand, Gottier explained. That occurred just last week. "But

May and June usually are the bad months in this business," he added. When production was at its peak, back in 1945-46, there were 75 persons on the payroll at the mill. The contribution by the firm at present amounts to about $10,000 monthly in salaries and payroll, Gottier said.

During World War Two the Gottier Mills made parachute tape and mosquito ribbon for the Army, Navy and Air Force, but since the termination of the war no government contracts have been taken "because we can't begin to compete in the market today," the president said.

Material used at the plant to make ribbon includes nylon, rayon-cotton combination, silk and pure rayon. The latter is in greatest demand and produced in the greatest number by the mill.

Before the young German salesman left the office he explained he will travel to Canada and Mexico and return home after being in North America about six months.

"We just started selling machines to the States," Rosenkrantz said. "We sold in other countries before but couldn't sell here because, of course you know, we lost the war." He said the American agency has been handling German equipment for the past year and have sold quite a few machines.

Gottier wasn't in the market, however. He explained he just purchased two modern machines only recently and with the textile business unbalanced at present, would not consider investing at this time.

A family-owned corporation is Gottier Ribbon Mills. Other officials are Carl Gottier, the president's brother who serves as vice president and treasurer and Mrs.

National Family Week

"Brotherhood Begins at Home" is the theme of the tenth annual observance of National Family Week, which started Sunday and continues until Sunday, May 11.

The observance has been widely endorsed by Catholics, Protestants and Jews who herald the week as one in which maintenance of family relations, one with the other, is again brought to the fore as a salient part of our way of life.

President Truman, in remarking on this observance, said "without the guidance of God and without the spiritual qualities within ourselves as courage, honor, unselfishness, steadfastness, idealism and love, the ablest of our military, political and industrial leaders cannot give us peace." In furthering this action, people everywhere will be inspired by the knowledge that three great faiths, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant, are finding a common religious motivation in their devotion to our country and to the families which generate the moral power of our democracy."

Let us all so live that National Family Week will be actuality every week in the year.

A Fatal "Cure"

By unanimous vote of its convention delegates the Textile Workers Union, CIO, calls upon Congress to enforce a 35-hour week in cotton and woolen mills without reduction of present wages for a 40-hour week. It also wants limitations put upon the number of shifts to be worked.

These demands are actuated by a serious recession—not to call it a depression—in the textile trades. The union aims to spread the available work and so reduce or eliminate unemployment and part-time work. The end may be justifiable, but the means of reaching it which the union proposes could only make a bad situation worse.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The Defense Department in Washington is assisting President Truman in the imposition of a labor government on the United States.

None of us has voted for a Labor Government, such as voters in England recently shook off their backs, but this hasn't deterred Mr. Truman. He is doing it by executive fiat. And Defense Department officials are grubbing around in politics and labor-management disputes, including the steel plant seizure, at the behest of the President and the little would-be dictators who advise him at the White House.

The Defense department was established by Congress to handle military matters. Its top civilian officials are responsible for general administration over-all policy. Nowhere in the legislation which set up the department is there any authorization for officials to serve as political operators for the President.

When Mr. Truman decreed that the last nine months of national policy-making under his administration would be dictated by organized labor, he expected and got total cooperation from the Defense department. Three recent incidents prove it. There are countless others, but the three are indicative of the President's conviction that leaders of CIO, the A. F. of L. and sundry other union bosses know what is best for the U.S.A.

For instance, in announcing a new defense contract for a Detroit automobile plant, the Defense department first cleared the contract with Walter Reuther, head of the CIO auto workers. Reuther conferred with Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant Secretary of Defense, and then left the Pentagon to announce that the Defense department was awarding the contract to a firm with which his union holds a contract. Apparently, this was the media by which the company learned that its bid for the contract had been accepted.

Reuther stated that he would continue to confer with Defense department officials from time to time on the placement of contracts for war materials.

Another incident of even more pertinence occurred at the time Charles E. Wilson quit as National Defense Mobilizer. Wilson didn't say so in so many words, but he implied that Mr. Truman double crossed him nine ways from Sunday. He said that he had an agreement with the President to try for a labor-management compromise in the steel wage dispute. But he said he had no sooner returned to Washington after talking to the President in Key West, than CIO president Philip Murray or "one of his cohorts" called Mr. Truman and set him straight on what the union wanted.

And what the union wanted was not what the President or Wilson thought it should get. It was a bigger raise in pay and a tighter lid on steel prices. The chore of satisfying the union was handed to Nathan Feinsinger, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, who had been making telephone calls to the President via the back door at the same time Wilson and Mr. Truman were agreeing face to face on what the union should get. Feinsinger is a long time foe of the Taft-Hartley law, which may be one reason why Mr. Truman ducked using it to help settle the steel dispute.

A third indication of Defense department and White House how-towing to labor occurred during the recent threat of a steel strike. Nathan Witt, described on numerous occasions as a Communist, who is currently a legal advisor to copper producing unions, was bowed in and out of the Pentagon as though the fate of the nation hinged on his frowns.

All in all it adds up to a labor government of the U.S.A. whether we like it or not. The union bosses, including Communist lawyers, are calling the tune now and will be for another nine months. Let's hope it ends there, but if they keep on at the present pace it probably will be too late to rectify the damage.

After all, there are a few other vice men in America besides Reuther and Murray and the fumbling boss of the A. F. of L., William Green. But Mr. Truman doesn't think so, hence we'll have to take it until he trots back to Missouri for a long vacation.

The modern barber pole is a relic of the early Middle Ages, when barbers in Europe practiced surgery.

The word "hotel" was first used by Joseph Corre, a New York inn-keeper, in 1790.

What the textile union asks would increase the cost of producing cotton and woolen goods. Instead of improving the volume of sales, which is presently low, higher production costs would hamper the mills in offering price inducement to buyers. But only greater sales volume will put more men to work.

The textile union's resolutions are one of too many current expressions of blind faith in a government's power to defy common sense. The Federal Government itself, most notably at the moment the officials of its stabilization agencies, share that unfortunate delusion. They are now urging Congress to prolong the wage and price "controls" of the Defense Production Act beyond their present expiry date of June 30 next, the very devices which have brought the steel industry and the defense program dependent on it to the threshold of disaster—Wall Street Journal.

Looking At Life

Un doubtedly all of you have read—or perhaps seen on television—the crazy antics of a lot of idiotic exhibitionists on Easter Sunday.

My wife and I had just come from St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City where we had attended the High Mass by Cardinal Francis Spellman.

We were still in the wonderful spirit of God's house, as we emerged from the Cathedral into a mass of photographers, broadcasters, television engineers, and men and women in the weird get-ups, all trying to get into the focus of the camera or into the attention of the broadcasters and reporters.

If ever there was a comedown from the divine to the ridiculous, this was it.

My wife and I are not Catholics. But Cardinal Spellman sent us tickets to the Easter Services and so we gladly attended. (On our humble opinion GOD dwells in ALL churches.)

The service at St. Patrick's is indescribably beautiful and, regardless of one's creed; one cannot help being uplifted by it and by the masterful sermon of Bishop Fulton Sheen.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Truman vs. Constitution

I have been receiving mail on the subject of the Constitution, and I find that some of the writers speak of the Constitution as a dogma and they ask whether human welfare is to be sacrificed to dogma.

It cannot be incidental that this question is raised. For many generations, the youth of this country have been getting a dose of the concept that whatever is dogmatic is per se wrong; that there are no absolutes about anything, not even the Ten Commandments. These generations of young people were taught that the economic basis for society and life is paramount; that all the developments of the human mind are the product of the economic environment of the moment. Therefore, the Constitution is not basic but is a product of the economic environment of the United States in 1787. That environment has since changed; therefore, the Constitution is inadequate today.

The fallacy of this doctrine is that the very existence of the United States derives from the Constitution. The Civil War was fought over the right to secede from the Union, a right which was claimed because the Constitution is a contract among the States, each one agreeing to abide by it. It was not adopted by the United States but by each State. Should the Constitution fall, the alternative to our form, representative government by and for free individuals, can only be some form of totalitarian government for an enslaved people.

The Constitution has proved over 163 years to be a practical document; in fact, it has survived all other similar arrangements, including the unwritten British Constitution, which is really an accumulation of habits, traditions and acts of legislation.

The men who wrote the Constitution were concerned with power. There was no antipathy to England, the mother country; there was profound objection to the use of economic and political power to reduce a people to bondage. Therefore, those who labored over the Constitution, practical men, who had themselves fought in the Revolutionary War, devoted themselves to the question of power and determined that they would set up a form of government in which no one would rule.

Alexander Hamilton wrote: "... history will teach us... that of those men who have overthrown the liberties of republics, the greatest number have begun their career by paying an obsequious court to the people; commencing demagogues, and ending tyrants."

Actually, it is more evil to corrupt the law, to subvert the law, than to violate the law.

Murder, Inc. violated the law. These men engaged in murder for hire. Some of them murdered each other; some of them were punished by the courts. Their acts in no manner weakened the law against murder.

On the other hand, the Kefauver investigation opened our eyes to the effort of gangsters to corrupt the law, to use wiles and devices to make the law ineffective or even to remove the law altogether, weakening the state and reducing the resistance of the people to general immorality. This covert activity, evil in itself, produces national diseases because not only are officials corrupted and the law lessened, but the people become subservient to those who obtain power by a collusion of gangster and official.

Mr. Truman challenges the nature of our society by seeking power where it does not exist. The right to rule is nowhere established in the American Constitution, which insists upon limited powers in each branch of government, so that at no time, in no circumstances, would it be possible for an official to use unlimited power to serve a particular purpose. The President of the United States is not a ruler; he is an instrument created by the Constitution to perform particular tasks.

The argument has been set forth that as Mr. Truman will not be a candidate for President, he can have no intention of expanding personal power. That is beside the point, which is that whenever an attempt is made to weaken the authority of the Constitution and to subvert the law, it must be fought because the law transcends personalities. If Truman had only one more day to serve, it would be necessary to take the Steel Seizure Case up to the Supreme Court to reiterate the inviolability of the Constitution.

This is not dogma; it is the preservation of liberty. It is the safeguarding of our personal freedoms.

Try And Stop Me

In the heart of the Ozarks, novelist Louis Bromfield lost his way and inquired of a native, "Am I on the road for Kansas City?" "Not exactly, Bud," said the native. "That road just moseys along for a piece, then it turns into a hog trail, then a squirrel track, and finally runs up a scrub pine and ends in a knothole."

On a radio panel, Robert Q. Lewis asked a girl what she wanted most in a husband: money, brains, or appearance. She answered without hesitation, "Appearance—and the sooner the better!"

A draftee, just up from Harvard, finished his first day of close-order drill under a hard-boiled top sergeant, and at the command, "At ease," murmured, "How wonderful is death?" "Who said that?" barked the sergeant, wheeling about. The draftee meekly replied, "Shelley, I believe, sir."

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — "Don't say I'm evading taxes," big, gangling Ed (Archibald) Gardner grinned as we parted; "just avoiding 'em."

The proprietor of radio's presently defunct Duffy's Tavern admitted that he profits, taxwise, by living in Puerto Rico. "But I still pay taxes in the United States—a helluva lot more than a lot of my critics."

He sounded more like a traveling booster for life in the Caribbean.

"You can relax down there. We have 365 days a year of sunshine, even on part of the days it rains. I'm closer to New York, my home town, than I was here."

"The old lady"—his wife, Simone—"doesn't need furs; it's too warm. Servants are $45 a month. I built a house, a dream joint, for about half what it would cost here. My kids—Slevie, 4, and Eddie, 8—"know two languages."

Gardner is back to film an hour-long installment of Duffy's Tavern to be telecast over NBC's All-Star Revue on May 31. Jeanette MacDonald and Rudy Vallee will be his guests.

"I plan now to do six to 10 of the shows next year," the mug-type comedian said sprawling in a chair of his Beverly Hills hotel suite. "If I stink it up they can take me out. If I don't make any dough on it, I can go home."

Ed's paid a package price for his show. "I thought I could do it for around 12 grand. It's beginning to look like it may be 20."

He hopes to market the films as theater movies in non-TV areas. "Home," he said, is and will remain Puerto Rico. Gardner moved there three years ago to take advantage of the island's "Operation Bootstrap." The Puerto Rican government declared a tax holiday until 1961, he said, on certain businesses for which

Why Parents Go Mad

It begins to look as if not even God can win a case before the United States Supreme Court without a dissenting opinion by three or four of its members. The gods of all faiths had to be content with a six-to-three decision recently when Justices Frankfurter, Jackson and Black saw something wrong about the public schools releasing small fry for an hour a week, at their parents' request, for a spiritual fortification of character.

The average parent, deeply worried about his children's spiritual side in an age of frightful juvenile delinquencies, was left bleeding and dazed by the fact the highest court in the country could come up with a split decision over whether it busts the constitution wide open and opens the republic to destruction if Little Willie is freed from school in order to get a little religious instruction in any church, chapel, synagogue or meeting house.

"I've got to fight crime blueprints in the movies, radio and video; I've got to fight the influence of street-corner hoodlums. I've got to fight my children's weird impulses in a screwball era. I've got to fight evil influence in a thousand places that can make buds and criminals out of my kids—and NOW I'VE GOT TO FIGHT THE SUPREME COURT!" exclaimed one hand-wringing mother today.

We explained that only Justices Frankfurter, Black and Jackson would make it tough for her, and that the six other members voted to uphold state board of education rules permitting kids to leave school an hour a week for maybe a little contact with the Bible.

Believe it or not, the dissenters held that coercion was involved. exemptions were granted. Glove, belt, china, brasserie and about 150 other industries besides Gardner moved in. Ed taped his radio show there on a modern San Juan station.

Gardner said he pays taxes to Puerto Rico on sugar stock he owns and to the U. S. on stock dividends here. His actors, writers, and technicians, numbering up to 200 when he was producing a movie in Puerto Rico, pay taxes to Puerto Rico.

Court Sentences Men To 5-10 Years On Burglary Charges

Benson, Cope Enter Pleas To Two Counts

Two burglars—one of whom fired a shot at State police last month—were given five to 10-year penitentiary sentences yesterday by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Orland T. Benson, 34, Etowah, Tenn., and Reginald A. Cope, 45, Portland RD2, Tenn., pleaded guilty to the charges of burglary.

They also pleaded guilty of carrying concealed weapons. On this charge they were sentenced to three years in jail. The sentences for burglary and carrying concealed weapons are to run concurrently.

The court instructed Sheriff Jacob Altomero to take the pair to Eastern Penitentiary within 10 days.

The two were taken into court during the morning session yesterday. They requested counsel, and the court later appointed attorneys Alex Bensinger and Forrest Mervine to represent the two.

Cope and Benson reappeared in court during the afternoon and, with little ado, pleaded guilty to the charges.

Pfc. Ed Beneski of the Stroudsburg substation, was the only one to take the witness stand. At District Attorney Elmer D. Christine's request he told of Benson breaking into the kitchen of the Fred R. Duckloe residence on Route 611 opposite CLU park, on April 14.

Mrs. Duckloe, who was home at the time, later identified Benson as the burglar, Beneski said.

The pair was arrested by Cpl. Carson Overgard of the Mount Pocono substation. Overgard and Beneski handcuffed the pair and put them in the back seat of a police car, Beneski said.

"Just as we reached Stroudsburg," Beneski continued, "Benson asked if there was a jail in the town."

"I said yes there was, and we'd soon be there. Then Benson put something in my back and said it was a gun."

Benson told the trooper to keep driving through town and out into the country, Beneski said.

"I looked over my shoulder and saw it was a gun," Beneski said.

The trooper then steered the car down an alley off Ninth and Monroe Sts., Stroudsburg, stopped, and swung around to grab for the gun, he said.

Beneski said Benson fired once. The slug went out through the side of the car. Beneski said Overgard had already drawn his own gun, and the two policemen wrestled the 32 automatic pistol away from Benson before he could fire again.

In the days of questioning which followed, the two Tennesseans told police of a string of daylight burglaries stretching from Georgia to Monroe County, and accomplished within a period of about two weeks.

The only criminal record reported in court against the two men was a faulty check charge which had been lodged against Cope. The check was for $25, and the matter had been disposed of and restitution made, it was stated.

Counsel Mervine and Bensinger agreed that the two men acted wisely in pleading guilty. Attorney Bensinger offered the information that Benson had served in the Navy for many years, had received an honorable discharge, and had spent some time in a naval hospital psychopathic ward in San Diego, Cal. Cope, counsel said, had served in the medical corps of the Army, had been wounded in Italy, and was discharged with a disability.

The sheriff's office said yesterday that three detainees have been received on Cope and Benson.

One, from Cecil County, Md., charged them with stealing a shotgun, rifle, suit of clothes and some fountain pens from the residence of Charles W. Pearson of that county.

Another, from Brandywine Hundred, Del., charged the two with breaking and entering, and larceny of a pistol, camera, photo equipment and jewelry from the home of Sturgis M. Fay of that city.

The third detainee was issued by Northampton County authorities. It charged Cope and Benson with burglary and larceny at the summer home of Leonard Harris of Upper Mount Bethel Township.

Grand Jurors To Consider Only One Case

The lightest session in years faces the Monroe County grand jury today. Only one case is scheduled for presentation by District Attorney Elmer D. Christine.

The jury may be able to dispose of its criminal case work and complete its inspection of county facilities within the day.

The case to be presented involves a charge of involuntary manslaughter against Jack Sustek, 43, Astoria, La., N. Y.

He was driver of a car in which Joseph Fody, 46, Bloomfield, N. J., was killed March 9 near Kresgeville. Fody was Sustek's brother-in-law.

The car ran off the highway and struck a service pole. Formerly, the first Monday of the month in which there was a regular court session was given over to grand jury work. Under the present system, however, yesterday was devoted to disposing of a number of pending cases, and the jury was instructed to convene today.

Teacher Fined $150, Costs

For failing to stop immediately at the scene of an accident, a New York City school teacher yesterday was fined $150 and costs by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Pfc. Evan Chaplin said the teacher, Albert Field, 36, failed to stop after his car collided with a bakery truck April 12 on Route 611, a mile and a half north of Stroudsburg.

The truck was owned by John Hecht, 57, 116 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Chaplin testified the school teacher was arrested some 20 miles from the scene.

Field pleaded guilty of the charge, told the court he could not make it "right" but could make it "reasonable." The teacher went on to describe the accident, saying he allowed his "better judgment to be swayed."

The teacher paid the fine and costs.

172 Rochez Workers Idle

Tobyhanna — All of Rochez Brothers' 172 employees at the Signal Corps construction project here were off the job yesterday as a strike of operating engineers continued.

Not all the 172 were on strike. A project spokesman explained that members of the Teamsters and Laborers Union have no work to do when the operating engineers are not busy. Teamsters accordingly did not work yesterday. Only Rochez men still on the job are a few maintenance men.

Of the employees of Consolidated Construction Co., building warehouses and foundations at the project, about 150 were working yesterday, it was reported.

Those working included carpenters, laborers and cleanup men whose jobs do not depend directly on what the engineers do. Consolidated also employs some engineers. They are out on strike, too.

Thomas Kelly, Consolidated's job superintendent, was reported still conferring with union officials, but no agreements were reached. The strike is part of a drive to win a 40-cent hourly increase all over Eastern Pennsylvania by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Apply For License

Theodore J. Cussimano and Josephine R. Corcione, both of New York City, applied yesterday at the courthouse for a marriage license.

Peter Westbrook, Nina Burnley, Bobby Huffman, Russell Cramer, and Lorraine Brink.

Merchants Suggest Meter Zone Extension As Means Of Easing Parking Problem

The extension of the Stroudsburg parking meter area to include Main St. between Eighth and Ninth Sts., will be recommended to Borough Council for immediate action, according to a motion passed by the Stroudsburg Business Men's Association at the monthly dinner meeting held at Log Cabin Inn last night.

The association is also asking council to consider including other streets for metered parking, namely: Monroe St. between Sixth and Eighth, Sixth St. between Monroe and Sarah, and Eighth St. between Main and Monroe with Monroe St. being made a one-way street.

Motor Bike Rider Given Jail Sentence

A six-month jail sentence was ordered in court yesterday for Carl Hinehine, 28, of 467 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, for riding his motor bicycle while intoxicated.

An additional sentence of six months for driving while his license was under suspension was ordered to run concurrently with the first sentence.

Hinehine pleaded guilty before President Judge Fred W. Davis.

He was arrested by Pfc. Emil J. Weber Jan. 20 on Route 209 between East Stroudsburg and Marshalls Creek. On the stand, Weber said Hinehine had been "weaving all over the road."

Weber brought out that Hinehine had been charged twice before with driving while intoxicated, in August 1946 and February 1950.

Hinehine was committed to the county jail to begin sentence.

Defendant Pleads Guilty

Harry Whitmore, 20, of Ave. E. N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty yesterday of obtaining money fraudulently from the Department of Public Assistance.

A DPA official testified Whitmore fraudulently collected $98.10 from DPA while he was working. President Judge Fred W. Davis ordered Whitmore to repay the $98.10 and pay costs of prosecution.

Whitmore was further ordered to pay $50 and an amount equal to the prosecution costs to the use of Monroe County. The court said the youth could make the payments in installments. Sentencing on the fraud charge was suspended.

Whitmore is free, after making the initial payment.

Concert Puts Radium Fund Nearer Goal

Frank S. LaBar, president of the board of the General Hospital, expressed the appreciation of the board to the artists who last night presented a concert for the benefit of the hospital's radium fund at Stroudsburg High School auditorium.

The audience expressed its appreciation of the music by their applause which demanded encore after encore from Karen Kempe, soprano soloist, and the Young People's Orchestra.

Mr. LaBar presented a bouquet of flowers to Miss Kempe, who in private life is Mrs. Allen Roth, and announced that due to the work of last night's musicians, and the generosity of the auxiliaries and individuals the hospital's radium fund lacked only $273 of its goal.

Miss Kempe, singing for the first time to local audiences, was given an ovation, and during her group of songs by Grieg, delighted the audience by tossing her flower to her daughter, Robyn, in the first row. Robyn promptly joined her on the stage, and it was to her that she sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" in both the English and original Danish.

Her other songs included Puccini's "One Fine Day," and Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful" and she gave generously of her encores.

The orchestra, too, was received with enthusiasm, as under the direction of Thomas Knepp they presented a varied program with skill and feeling. Numa Snyder, violinist, and Earl Groner Jr., trombonist.

Fenical Sentenced
Albert Fenical, East Stroudsburg RD, charged with P. and B., was sentenced yesterday by President Judge Fred W. Davis to pay prosecution costs, expenses and $6 weekly for support. Fenical pleaded guilty.

Two Men Fined $300 For Driving While Intoxicated

Charles Bogart, 41, of 296 Broad St., Stroudsburg, was fined $300 and costs by President Judge Fred W. Davis after pleading guilty of driving while intoxicated. Bogart was arrested March 23 by Pfc. Emil J. Weber of the Stroudsburg substation. Bogart, a laborer, was freed yesterday after paying the fine.

A plea of guilty of driving while intoxicated was made in court yesterday by Clarence LeRoy Stumpp Jr., 23, of 312 Wallace St., Stroudsburg.

He was fined $300 and costs by Judge Davis.

Stumpp was arrested Jan. 12 by East Stroudsburg Officers Louis Caramella and Donald Quick. The police said they watched Stumpp driving erratically west from East Stroudsburg to Stroudsburg.

The court permitted Stumpp, a foundry worker, to pay the fine in installments.

ist were heard in solo numbers in the opening "Gloria from Mass in B flat," Farmer.

From the Strauss waltzes and novelty "Synchopated Clock" to the scope of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" the orchestra gave a finished performance. Martin Peiffer conducted two of the numbers.

Womans Club Officers In Final Meeting

The final meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Club for the current year was held at the Stroud Community House yesterday afternoon. President, Mrs. George T. Robinson, introduced Mrs. James Cummings, president of the Junior section who opened the meeting with the club collect.

Mrs. Walter Caulfield, first vice president and welfare chairman, announced that 52 babies had visited the clinic during the month, including two new ones.

Mrs. Parke Kunkle, second vice president and program chairman, reported on plans for next year's meetings and announced that the regular meeting on Monday, May 12, would feature Miss H. Eloise Bryan as speaker, and Mrs. W. R. Levering, music chairman announced that Mrs. Lucy Quig and Mrs. Louise Ott will play duo-piano numbers.

Mrs. A. A. Holbrook thanked the club for their part as hostesses to the county federation, and Mrs. Frank French for serving as county president during her illness. Mrs. James Cummings, Junior president, thanked the senior officers for their cooperation during the year.

Mrs. Alford Meyers spoke on the new voting machines and urged members to become familiar with them before election time. Mrs. Floyd Bachman described correspondence in behalf of the American Home committee; and Mrs. I. B. Kiffin, chairman of legislation, urged all members to be interested in politics.

An auditing committee composed of Mrs. Howard Eckert, Mrs. Gerald Shanley and Mrs. Eugene Martin was appointed to audit the books; and Mrs. William Toewe, chairman of ways and means, reported on hospital stationery.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. George T. Robinson, Mrs. Frank French, Mrs. Claude Cramer, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Eugene Martin, Mrs. Alford Meyers, Mrs. Paul Lloyd, Mrs. Walter Caulfield, Mrs. Oram Hoffman, Mrs. A. A. Holbrook, Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Mrs. Parke Kunkle, Mrs. Frank Grimm, Mrs. Gerald Shanley, Mrs. James Cummings, Mrs. E. R. Levering, Mrs. Harold Eaton, Mrs. I. B. Kiffin and Mrs. William Toewe.

The American Association of University Women closed its club year with a dinner meeting last night at the Stroud Community House, which had been decorated with apple blossoms and Spring flowers for the buffet table and the smaller tables where members and their guests were seated.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Henry Slaboski, president, reported on the extra-curricular events of the year which included studies on the "Agencies of the U. N.," "Divided Germany," and the "Point Four Program" by the International Relations group; studies of "Psychology for the Laymen" and "Why Public Assistance," arranged by the Social Studies group; the survey of candidates during the fall election and a study of tax problems of Pennsylvania, by the legislative group; the "School for Parents" and the "College Punch" arranged by the education committee, and the Book Fair for the benefit of Fellowship.

Mrs. Robert Hartman gave the report of the auditing committee. Announcement was made of the Northeast region meeting at Pembroke College, Brown University beginning June 5 which Dr. Veva Dean will attend.

Mrs. Claude Leister announced that Dr. Herbert Lorenz would speak on "The Point Four Program" at the International Relations study group meeting at her home on Thursday, May 8.

Dr. Veva Dean and Mrs. J. L. Cohen reported on the recent district meeting in Bethlehem and Mrs. Harold C. Edwards read proposed legislative emphasis for the national AAUW which were approved.

After Mrs. Slaboski had presented next year's slate of officers, shown above, Dr. Dean, new president, introduced Miss Katherine MacFarland, head of the speech department at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who presented a dramatic reading of a cutting from a one-act play.

Mrs. Roger Dunning was chairman of the supper committee.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's a very satisfactory feeling to be full of good food, or good music, or good news, and when in one night you can stock up on all three, a social editor's life is triply blessed.

Never doubt that University Women can cook—their supper was super, and there were so many people to be happy for: Mrs. Leister for Ann's nice fiancé, and Mrs. Cohen for Michael's winning the mathematics contest; and Julia Sieg for all her winners; and Lena Slaboski for a term well-completed.

Drama, we had, too with Kay MacFarland demonstrating ably why she's head of the speech department; and then a little unexpected drama when Robyn Roth joined her mother on the stage at the concert.

You could be happy, too, at the size of the crowd and their enthusiasm for the orchestra and for Karen Roth, whose songs carried well beyond the auditorium and into the corridors where the AAUW life comers were lurking.

And happy, too for the Gradale

Gradale Sorority Entertains At Mothers Tea

The Gradale Sorority of the YMCA last night entertained their mothers at a Mother's Day tea at the Y. The opening devotions were based on hymns, scripture and prayers concerning mothers with Mrs. Frances Lawson, Mrs. Beatrice Steinmetz and Mrs. Jean Ciampi taking part.

Each member then introduced her mother and presented a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Dorothy Boushell announced the program.

Miss Sandra Kresge, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Ann Hickey, sang "Will You Remember?" and "Romance". Mary Frances Frankfield presented a number of pupils from her school of the dance, including Patricia Everitt and Linda Joe Pine, who danced as Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy; Miss Anne Shaffer, who danced a toe-waltz; and a Scottish toe-tap by Susan Shaffer. Mary Frances herself danced the Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy.

Following the program, tea was served with the advisors, Mrs. Nelson Beers and Mrs. Henry Kresge, pouring at the tea table decorated with tulips. The hostesses were Mrs. Florence Zateeny, Mrs. Mildred Garden, Mrs. Jean Yutz, Miss Dorothy Albertson, Mrs. Evelyn Tweedie and Mrs. Dorothy Boushell.

Cooked and drained egg noodles, tossed with melted butter and poppy seeds, make a delicious accompaniment to chicken.

Following the PTA business meeting, a panel discussion was held with teachers, school board and parents represented on the panel.

Among the subjects brought up was that of the honor roll published after each marking period. The general consensus seemed to be that it was unjust to some of the children who did the best work of which they were capable without ever being able to achieve the public recognition.

Other subjects discussed were the condition of the roads over which school buses must travel, and the difficulty of changing from the small school in which each child is individually recognized to the big junior high school in town, and how parents could help in the adjustment.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"Pete Wyckoff certainly missed his calling," one of our customers remarked yesterday. "Did you see him at last night's auction? I never enjoyed anything quite so much." And that's not the only compliment he merited as Easy Dough auctioneer. Having a gift for saying funny things and keeping events running full speed ahead, Pete made of the sale one of the finest entertainments the local public has enjoyed in many a moon.

Yesterday I was looking over the list of winners, and the merchandise which they purchased with their proxy money. It was really amazing to see at what price some of the best buys had been knocked down...the chrome breakfast set, for instance, which went to Mrs. Andy Farris of Barnum St., East Stroudsburg. Valued at $135, this was sold for a mere $450, in that delightful folding money which Wyckoff's GIVES you with every cash purchase or payment on account. I was unable to reach Mrs. Farris on the telephone, but I know how she would have responded to a question as to whether or not she liked her auction...don't you? A gift like that isn't an every day occurrence, as everybody knows.

I did reach one of our successful bidders by telephone, however, and she was still bubbling over with mirth and excitement. When she responded to our ring, our conversation went something like this: "Is this Mrs. George Woehleke?" "Mrs. Woehleke, this is the Wyckoff Shopper and I understand that you attended our auction Friday night. I missed it because of our circus excursion and I wondered if you'd tell me frankly just what you thought of it?"

"Oh...it was WONDERFUL," came the reply. "Just wonderful. Very, very fine. We should have lots more of them. And so funny too."

"Is that your honest opinion?" I prodded. "You really felt everything was run as it should have been?"

"Oh, my yes...it was very good. And so fair too. Nothing went too high. I wanted that 3-piece luggage set because I go to Florida every winter and that was really the only thing I needed. And I got all three pieces for only $250. It's from Sears-Roebuck and they even let me change the color from red to tan. That's something that never happened at any auction I attended before. I had a lovely time, so now I'm hustling up more money for this Friday night."

Wyckoff Department Store Announces Appointment Of Kerlin As General Manager

Ernest H. Wyckoff, president of A. B. Wyckoff, Inc., yesterday announced the appointment of Jack L. Kerlin to the newly established office of general manager of the Wyckoff Department Store. The announcement came as a birthday present to Mr. Kerlin, who was born in Stroudsburg on May 5, 1902.

A great grandson of Daniel Wyckoff, who, with his brother Jacob, was one of the store's original founders, Mr. Kerlin is the only executive of the company descended from that branch of the Wyckoff family. Throughout his life he has been almost constantly associated with the store, having served as stock boy and as he describes it, "jack of all trades" during his vacations from high school and college.

A graduate of Stroudsburg High School with the class of 1920, Mr. Kerlin furthered his education at Lehigh University and the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania. He later entered the automobile business with James Loder of East Stroudsburg, selling Franklin cars, an experience which led to his becoming sales manager of the Franklin Company in Allentown, and then taking over his own Franklin agency in Pottstown.

Mr. Kerlin returned to the Stroudsburgs in 1928, at which time he became associated with the Wyckoff store in the electrical appliance department. During this period he gradually assumed greater responsibilities throughout the merchandising departments, and in 1939 he assumed the position of credit manager. In addition to his other duties, in 1940 he became a member of the board of directors of the Wyckoff corporation, and was elected secretary. By 1944, he had risen to the office of vice president of the company, a post which he combined with that of secretary, and his scope of merchandising supervision was broadened.

Mr. Kerlin explains that his present appointment in no way reflects policy changes. "Company policies," he states, "have been effectively instilled into Wyckoff executives through many years of successful merchandising history, by Mr. Ernest H. Wyckoff and the members of the family who preceded him. These will, of course, continue."

A member and past president of the board of trustees of First Presbyterian Church, Mr. Kerlin, who resides at 721 Scott Street, is married to the former Marian Kresge of Stroudsburg. Their daughter, Carol Ann, is a student in the junior high school here.

There is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Board To Hear State Report On Route 611

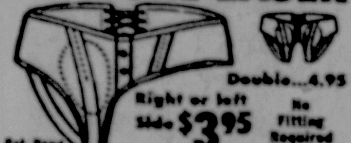

Portland — This community's Board of Trade will hear an address Wednesday, May 14 on the condition of Route 611 and future developments being prepared by the State.

Otto Hockrein, president, has announced the meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Grandview. Speaker will be the district engineer for the State, J. Boyer, who will answer questions relative to the new bridge construction and its effect on the highway. He also will explain landslide control.

Possible installation of fire hydrants for residents of the old road through Stateford and past the cemetery also will be considered. Hockrein has stated the homes in this area are not protected and insurance rates are being paid by 20 to 30 persons in excess because of the unprotected section. Persons interested are urged to attend the meeting, Hockrein said.

About 90 million banana stems (big bunches) are shipped in world trade annually.

Little League Lists Regular Season Slate

Tannersville — Lawrence "Joe" Wile, principal at Pocono High School and president of the Pocono Mountains Little League, has released the circuit's 1952 baseball schedule, which will feature all four teams in their opening games on Tuesday, June 3.

A total of 18 playing dates are listed on the agenda, with each date calling for two games to be played.

The season is scheduled to come to a close on Thursday, July 31.

Barrett Lions, Barrett Rotary, Pocono Lions and Mt. Pocono Rotary are the sponsoring units.

Home Fields

Pocono Lions will play all home games on the Tobyhanna Township High School field at Pocono Pines, while Mt. Pocono Rotary will go through its games at Pocono Mountain. Both the Barrett Lions and Barrett Rotary will play on a regular Little League field to be constructed in Barrett and to be known as Siglin Field.

All games will begin promptly at 6:30 p.m.

In addition to Wile, other officers in the league are: Gerald Possinger, Mt. Pocono Rotary, vice president; Harold "Hal" Kreck, Barrett Lions, secretary, and Willard Webster, Mt. Pocono Rotary, treasurer. Wile is a member of Barrett Rotary.

Kennedy's Relief Hurling, Westrum's Circuit Blow Carry Giants To Seventh Straight Win

Chicago (AP) — Wes Westrum slugged a two-run homer and Bobby Thomson tripled yesterday to wreck a four-hitter by lefty Paul Minner and give the rampaging New York Giants a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs for their seventh straight win.

In overcoming a 2-0 deficit for their eleventh decision in 12 starts, the Giants got a brilliant relief job from lefty Monte Kennedy, who made his first appearance of the season with the bases loaded in the third and allowed only one hit in the last six and one third innings. Lone Hit

The lone Cub hit off Kennedy was Leon Brinkopf's leadoff single in the fourth, and then the Giant hurler retired 17 straight batters to round out the game.

Kennedy entered the game after the Cubs had scored their second run off starter Jim Hearn and had the bases loaded with two out.

Big "Hank" Säuer racked his 22nd and 23rd RBIs of the season with a first-inning triple and a third inning single to give the Cubs a 2-0 lead. His first three baggies followed a single by Bob Ramazzotti. Minner pitched no-hit ball until two were out in the fifth. Alvin Dark sailed a 1-1 pitch into right field for a single. Next up, Westrum pounded his fourth homer of the season over the left field wall just inside the foul line, tying the score at 2-2.

The Giants went ahead 3-2 in the sixth when Minner bobbled "Whitey" Lockman's bunt and Thomson tripled off the wall in right center.

Indians Rally In Tenth To Decision Red Sox

Boston (AP) — Bobby Avila's homer was followed immediately by a pair of triples and a single as the Cleveland Indians staged a three-run uprising in the 10th inning yesterday to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 4-2, and move to within a game of the American League's top place.

While sweeping the two-game series with the front-running Red Sox, the Indians pulled into a 1-1 tie against lefty Mel Parnell in the eighth inning.

Home
Parnell had two out and the bases empty in the 10th when Avila belted into the left field screen. Then Al Rosen lashed a three-bagger off the center field wall and Ellis Kinder replaced Parnell. Ray Boone connected for a triple into right-center to score Rosen and then romped out an infield dribbler for a single.

In the Red Sox side of the 10th, with one down, pinch-hitter Clyde Volmer homered over the left field screen and Dom DiMaggio doubled high off the left-center wall. But then Early Wynn, who had relieved starter Bob Lemon in the eighth, struck out Don Lenz and Walt Dropo to wind up the game.

Dodgers Trip Pirates, 5-1

Pittsburgh (AP) — Andy Pafko held his furious home run pace by sending a 400-foot line drive over the left field fence in the fifth inning to help the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. Rain halted the game at the end of eight innings.

The home run was Pafko's seventh of the season and maintained him as the top circuit clouter in the National League.

Breaks Slump
Gil Hodges, who had been in a batting slump, came out of it with a three-run homer, his first of the season, for the Dodgers in the fourth inning.

"Pee-Wee" Reese started the Dodger scoring with a triple in the second inning, sending home Hodges who had walked.

Pete Castiglione got the Pirates' only run. He doubled, went to third on an outfield fly, and tallied just ahead of the tagout as Ted Beard hit into a double play.

Jackie Robinson injured his right thigh sliding into second base in the seventh. The Dodgers trainer said he thought Jackie will be able to play today in Cincinnati.

Senate Recommends Foreign Aid Bill Oil Strike Leader Will Settle For 18.5 Cents

CIO Willing To Reduce Pay Demand

Denver (AP) — The leader of a striking oil union dropped a broad hint yesterday that the strike could be settled on wage terms well below the union coalition's initial demands.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International, which has its headquarters in Denver, said in a statement: "Anytime an oil company will offer us 18½ cents in cash, the strike at that company's plant would undoubtedly end in a short time."

Knight was commenting on reported terms of a settlement in California involving a union which is not among the 22 CIO, AFL and independent unions which called the strike last Wednesday.

The strike was ordered to back up the unions' demands for a wage increase of 26 cents per hour plus higher extra pay for night work. The current scale averages $2 to $2.10 per hour.

The Los Angeles agreement between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil of California included benefits worth 18½ cents an hour, a union spokesman said.

But at San Francisco, a company official said they figured it amounts to a 15-cent boost. The 5,000 union members have not been on strike.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Interior Chapman said the government is not planning on nationwide rationing of automobile gasoline despite shortages here and there.

Chapman told reporters at New York he was "hopeful of a settlement being reached in a few days. The situation is very serious."

He said it was likely a ban might be placed on automobile sports to conserve gasoline.

The government added 26 more states to the previous list of 17 where inventory restrictions on gasoline, kerosene, home-heating oil, diesel fuel and residual fuel oil were put into effect last Thursday. The order left only Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Arizona free from the limitation provisions.

The Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) already has ordered a 30-per cent cut in gasoline for civil aviation purposes, effective at 4:01 a. m. today.

Earlier, the U. S. Air Force ordered a reduction in training flights to stretch its supplies of high octane fuel, the kind which motorists can't use in their automobiles.

Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of PAD, said gasoline rationing "would take too long to set up." Chapman said he agrees.

The strike involves almost 90,000 union members. Knight estimated that 45 per cent of the nation's refineries, including some of the world's largest, have been closed.

Among those on hand to greet the supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty nations were Randolph Paolardi, Italian defense minister and Gen. Elio Marras, Italian chief of staff.

Looking fit but tired, Eisenhower commented to newsmen "all I have to say is I'm glad to be here." An aide said he will hold a news conference today.

At Udine, the general was greeted by a score of generals and 10,000 Italian troops representing five divisions.

Newbold Morris

Morris Knew Of Probes, Witnesses Say

Washington (AP) — Witnesses before a House inquiry committee testified yesterday former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath and Newbold Morris were notified that Morris' law firm was in hot water with the Justice Department before McGrath appointed Morris as federal clean-up chief.

Morris has sworn he never knew he was the target of an investigation—centering on the role played by his law firm in a get-rich-quick deal in U. S. surplus tankers—before he took the clean-up job last Feb. 1.

Similarly, McGrath has testified he knew nothing about any criminal investigation of the tanker deal.

Morris could not be reached immediately for comment on the day's development. Nor could McGrath.

Payton Ford, McGrath's former deputy, told a House judiciary subcommittee that when McGrath and Morris discussed the clean-up job last January, they also talked about the tanker case. Morris was appointed as the Truman administration anti-corruption sleuth on Feb. 1. McGrath fired him April 3.

Ford said McGrath told Morris that in taking over the clean-up post he would have to "disqualify" himself from any inquiry touching on the tanker affair because his law firm was involved in the case.

But Ford told the lawmakers: "I never associated Newbold Morris with a criminal investigation. It never went through my mind."

Ford said he and McGrath both regarded Morris' connection with the tanker transactions "as a lawyer representing the companies and not as being personally involved."

The former assistant attorney general said he met Morris and took him to McGrath's home to discuss the appointment as clean-up boss. At that time, he said, the tanker case was "under review" by the Justice Department's Criminal Division but hadn't come up for a full-fledged investigation.

Truman Urges Insurance Against Flood Damage

Washington (AP) — A system of government insurance against flood damage, backed by a 1½-billion-dollar fund, was urged upon Congress yesterday by President Truman.

Proposed legislation which Truman sent to Capitol Hill would allow the Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) to issue such insurance directly or to reinsure policies written by private companies.

The RFC initially would be authorized to commit up to 500 million dollars. With presidential approval, it could be increased by 500 million on July 1, 1953, and by a like amount a year later.

"The lack of such an insurance system," Truman said in a special message, "is a major gap in the means by which a man can make his home, his farm, or his business secure against financial loss."

"The reasons for enacting such legislation was very clear. At present, insurance against flood damage is virtually unobtainable from private insurance companies, nor does it seem likely that the private companies by themselves will find it possible to write flood insurance at reasonable rates."

Delegates Meet Only 15 Minutes

Minneapolis, Korea (AP) — Allied and Communist truce negotiators met for only 15 minutes today. U. N. command spokesman said it was obvious no agreement had been reached.

The session again was held in complete secrecy at Panmunjom. The top-level delegates agreed to meet again tomorrow.

Agency Extends PP&L Rate Case

Harrisburg (AP) — The Public Utility Commission extended for another three months to August 12 yesterday a proposed $2,730,000-a-year Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. rate increase.

The boost would affect only industrial and commercial users.

Three Gunmen, Including Sutton's Pal, Quizzed In Arnold Schuster Slaying

Providence, R. I. (AP) — New York detectives and postal inspectors moved into Rhode Island yesterday to question three gunmen—trapped in an all-night diner raid—in the slaying of Arnold Schuster and a $29,000 Brooklyn postoffice robbery.

Massachusetts state police collaborated with Providence authorities in nabbing the trio, including Harvey Bistany, 48, once known in boxing circles as the "Syrian Flash," and reputed pal of Willie (The Actor) Sutton, notorious bank robber.

Schuster was riddled with bullets not long after he pointed out Sutton to police. Sutton now is in Sing Sing after a bank robbery conviction.

Providence detectives said the arrest of Bistany and his companions prevented a $70,000 robbery planned for last night at a Newton, Mass., industrial plant.

Wedemeyer Claims MacArthur Has Thrown Support To Taft

By The Associated Press
Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer claimed yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has thrown his support to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

In New York, a MacArthur spokesman said the former Pacific commander knew of Wedemeyer's statement but had no immediate comment.

Wedemeyer told a news conference in Washington that MacArthur called him a week ago and urged him to accept the chairmanship of a national Taft-for-President Citizens' Committee "for the good of the country."

He said that was "quite a clear indication" that MacArthur is supporting Taft.

Wedemeyer, who served as commander of U. S. forces in China late in World War Two, said in announcing his acceptance of the committee chairmanship that he regards Taft as "definitely the best qualified by knowledge and experience" in the field of GOP candidates.

Duff Denies Retiring From Ike Campaign

Washington (AP) — Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.) described yesterday as "vicious, malicious and unforgiving propaganda" a report he said was published over the weekend that he had retired from the Eisenhower campaign.

Duff said in a statement that the report was "falsely published and broadcast across America," but did not say by whom.

Commentator Drew Pearson said in a radio broadcast Sunday night that Duff "has rowed with Governor Dewey of New York and is no longer campaigning for Ike."

"Duff fears that Dewey's unpopularity among certain Republicans will hurt Eisenhower's chances," Pearson said. "And he also blames Dewey for the fact that he hasn't been invited to Paris."

The Paris reference was to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters there in his European defense job. A number of other Republicans have visited Eisenhower in Paris recently.

"The motive for launching so false a rumor is not difficult to understand," Duff said. "It is merely another shot of desperation in an attempted stop-Ike campaign."

Husband Of Late Author Stricken

Atlanta (AP) — John R. Marsh, 56, who helped his wife, Margaret Mitchell, write "Gone With The Wind," died yesterday of a heart attack.

Miss Mitchell died in 1949, several days after she was struck down by an automobile.

$6.9 Billion Measure Sent To Committee

Washington (AP) — Action on the $6,900,000,000 foreign aid bill came to an abrupt halt yesterday as the Senate voted to send the measure to its Armed Services Committee for 10 days' further study.

The Foreign Relations Committee already has had the bill under consideration for almost two months, and had slashed the original measure by one billion dollars.

The Senate action was taken on a motion by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), a member of the Armed Services Committee, and passed 40 to 33. The committee must report back to the whole Senate on May 15.

Knowland said that 70 per cent of the money called for in the bill is directly for military purposes.

Earlier, in debate on Knowland's motion, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Foreign Relations Committee said passage of the motion would "affront and almost insult" his committee after its long consideration.

The aid bill had been up for general debate yesterday, until it was stopped by the victory of the Knowland motion. The California senator said the Armed Services Committee should look into the possibilities of further cuts.

He also said the committee should try to see whether the measure had any effect on America's own rearmament and the re-equipment of American forces.

Knowland added "It is my judgment that if this bill passes in its present form any hope for a balanced budget for the coming year is an impossibility."

Nunan Admits He Could Be Indicted

Washington (AP) — Joseph D. Nunan Jr., former commissioner of internal revenue, told House investigators yesterday he thinks there are "possible crimes" for which he could be indicted.

The acknowledgement came as Nunan sparred with members of a House ways and means subcommittee over details of his six-figure personal income. He refused to answer a series of pointed questions about the sources of it.

After Nunan had cited the fourth, fifth and sixth amendments to the Constitution in support of his position, Adrian Dewind, committee counsel, asked him if he thought there was "any possible crimes for which you could be indicted?"

"Yes, sir, I think there are," Nunan answered, frowning. He did not go into any details.

The House committee, which has spent the last six months digging into a series of tax scandals, has been told by Treasury agents that Nunan received $161,000 in unexplained income between 1945 and 1950 and did not report it on his income tax returns.

Nunan was the nation's chief tax collector from 1944 to 1947.

Strikes Affect Bread, Beer Users

Pittsburgh (AP) — Bread and beer were getting a little scarce in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Local production of both commodities has been interrupted by strikes of brewery workers and bakery drivers.

The bread shortage was called serious. The walkout of 1,800 bakery workers cut output two-thirds in Pittsburgh and five adjacent counties.

Demand is reported exceeding supply for out-of-town bread and beer still available.

Motorist Squirts Water At Cop, Pays $50 Fine

Garden City, N. Y. (AP) — A playful little squirt cost Jack Houth $50 yesterday.

From a passing car Sunday, Houth, 24, let fly with a water pistol right in the ear of Patrolman William Hauser. The cop, who didn't think it at all funny, chased the car a mile and arrested him.

District Judge Paul Widlitz assessed the fine on a charge of disorderly conduct.

All Sides In Steel Dispute Wait Out Supreme Court; Hearings Start Next Week

Washington (AP) — The big steel labor dispute remained stuck on dead center last night with negotiations suspended and a solution apparently as far off as ever.

All sides seemed to be waiting for an eventual Supreme Court ruling on the questioned legality of President Truman's steel industry seizure nearly a month ago. It may be weeks before the high court decides the case. Its hearings start next Monday.

The steel industry, meantime, slowly returned to full production of the vital metal after last week's three-day strike. Even though negotiations have collapsed, the men remained at work as their union president, Phillip Murray, had promised.

Thirteen Republican senators introduced legislation to direct Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, government boss of the seized industry, to give up the steel plants and return them to their private owners.

Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb.), one of the sponsors, urged early Senate consideration, telling his colleagues the bill "sets forth an expedient method of overcoming the arbitrary seizure of the steel industry." It seemed unlikely, however, that the Senate would act while the issue is before the Supreme Court.

Some grumbling was heard in the mill towns about lack of a wage settlement after more than five months of negotiations with the government and industry.

Several union officials spoke of either "ignoring government seizure and shutting down the plants" or conducting slowdowns. But other leaders said "We'll sit tight until the Supreme Court rules."

Any strike now with seizure still legally in effect, could be enjoined by the courts, since the workers are technically government employees and as such are barred from striking.

Ridgway Coming Home Next Week

Tokyo (AP) — U. S. Far East Command headquarters announced today that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway would leave Japan for the United States at 3 p. m. on Monday, May 12.

Ridgway will leave from Haneda Airport aboard his private plane and will make a short stop at Hawaii before reaching San Francisco.

The announcement said Ridgway will remain in the United States until May 24 when he will leave for France and his new assignment as supreme Allied commander, Europe SHAPE.

Fleischmann Urges Extended Controls

Washington (AP) — The administrator of the defense production program told a House committee yesterday American industry is growing new muscle fast but cannot yet do without materials controls crutches.

Manly Fleischmann, speaking before the House Banking Committee, said "It is only by a continuation of flexible but effective controls that an adequate flow of materials to essential defense programs can be maintained during the next 18 months or longer."

Prisoner Dies From Effects Of Experiment

McNeil Island Prison, Wash. (AP) — An Oakland, Calif., prison inmate, Richard H. Higgins, 33, died Saturday of complications arising from his participation in a medical research project, prison Warden Fred T. Wilkinson announced yesterday.

The experiment was one by the National Institute of Health on the cause, prevention and treatment of hepatitis, a liver ailment.

The death was the first one among a large number of Federal prisoners over the nation who have taken part in such experiments, Warden Wilkinson said.

More than 1,000 Federal prisoners have taken part in experiments to find a suppressive cure for malaria, he added. A considerable number have also volunteered for researches on dysentery, infectious hepatitis and other diseases.

Ike In Italy To Say Goodbye To Officials

Rome (AP) — General Eisenhower flew into Rome last night to say goodbye to government leaders, after a stop-off at Udine where he bade warm farewell to Italian forces of his SHAPE command. In this country the supreme commander holds the honorary rank of corporal.

Among those on hand to greet the supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty nations were Randolph Paolardi, Italian defense minister and Gen. Elio Marras, Italian chief of staff.

Looking fit but tired, Eisenhower commented to newsmen "all I have to say is I'm glad to be here." An aide said he will hold a news conference today.

At Udine, the general was greeted by a score of generals and 10,000 Italian troops representing five divisions.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch Awarded Its Fifth Pulitzer Prize For Expose Of Tax Frauds

New York (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch's series on corruption in the Internal Revenue Department yesterday won the newspaper its fifth Pulitzer Prize. No other newspaper has ever won that many.

The Post-Dispatch was founded by the late Joseph Pulitzer, for whom the awards are named. In its series the newspaper began an expose of tax officials which resulted in 160 dismissals and resignations throughout the country and a full-scale investigation by Congress of the Revenue Department.

In other departments, Herman Wouk's wartime Navy novel, "The Caine Mutiny," won the 1952 award for fiction while Joseph Kramm's documentary drama, "The Shrike" won the prize for the best stage work.

"The Caine Mutiny" has been

Veteran Officer At Covered Bridge Retains Last Coin Passed As Toll Back In '27

Portland — Charles J. Newbaker of this community, celebrated the 35th anniversary of his appointment as a special officer on duty at the old covered bridge across the Delaware River.

A toll bridge when Newbaker began his duties, the veteran officer recalls collecting for ten years from motorists, who were assessed 25 cents a round trip and 20 cents one-way. The horse and wagon paid the same charge, but the special commuters were granted a 50 cents-a-month fee.

When the bridge commission took over operations in 1927, Newbaker was determined to retain a coin as a memento, and when the final car passed the bridge the officer substituted his own coin and pocketed the souvenir.

Despite exceptionally high waters that have threatened to destroy the landmark over the years, the bridge remains intact. And many of the experiences are recorded in the memory of the veteran bridge officer. In spite of guarding the span's flow of traffic for 35 years, Newbaker maintains today that each passing day is entirely different from those previous. Bulletins from State police still inform the officer to be alert for stolen cars or escaped criminals and the duty of halting speeding cars still goes on for this officer on a bridge that remains as one of the masterpieces of construction and the object find of many vacationers.

At 49 miles above the earth the temperature reaches 170 degrees above zero, says the National Geographic Society.

Gottier Ribbon Mills Specializing In Silk

The fifteenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A young German veteran of Hitler's army during World War Two was at the office of Gottier Ribbon Mills, Inc., at 40 N. Second St., Stroudsburg, when The Daily Record reporter called for a story on the textile mill's activities.

Robert Gottier, president of the concern, listened intently as 26-year-old Dieter Rosenkrantz explained in broken English the operational phases of an automatic quill winder he was selling in this country.

Maurice J. Lacey, Philadelphia representative of the American concern handling the German equipment, made the preliminary introductions and explained that Rosenkrantz was quite young when he served with the Nazi Army.

Gottier, who has been in the textile business in Stroudsburg since 1924 and moved to the present location, formerly the Stanford Silk Mill, in 1940, announced to the German salesman he had been in Switzerland only four years ago and proceeded to quiz the young, blende six-footer on the outstanding points of the machine he was attempting to sell.

The American go-between, Lacey, volunteered that Rosenkrantz arrived in this country just eight days ago after spending five months in England. "You will notice he has an English accent," Lacey remarked.

Special emphasis was placed by Rosenkrantz on the money that could be saved by purchasing one of his machines, stating one Philadelphia manufacturer cut his cost from 24 cents a pound to four and a half by using the German equipment.

Gottier, who employs 19 persons at its own plant and another 26 work for Stroud Ribbon Co., a commission concern for Gottier who occupy the same building in the rear, said his principal product presently being manufactured is ribbon made from Japanese silk. He has had the plant doing this type work for the past four years, after first seeing a sample sent from Switzerland. Each week one or two bales of the Japanese goods, each weighing about 125 pounds, arrive for the operation at the local plant, Gottier explained.

While work at the plant here consists only of quilling, warping and weaving, the ribbon is dyed by other firms not affiliated with Gottier in Allentown, Bethlehem and Paterson, N. J., and then distributed for sale to dressmakers and tailoring concerns.

When the ribbon leaves the plant here it varies in width from three-sixteenths of an inch to one and five-eighths, and the rolls contain either 50 or 100 yards.

Gottier, commenting on the textile recession, said the future presently seems uncertain and was not too optimistic. To date, in 1952, the plant has closed down only one week due to over-production and little demand, Gottier explained. That occurred just last week. "But

May and June usually are the bad months in this business," he added. When production was at its peak, back in 1945-46, there were 75 persons on the payroll at the mill. The contribution by the firm at present amounts to about $10,000 monthly in salaries and payroll, Gottier said.

During World War Two the Gottier Mills made parachute tape and mosquito ribbon for the Army, Navy and Air Force, but since the termination of the war no government contracts have been taken "because we can't begin to compete in the market today," the president said.

Material used at the plant to make ribbon includes nylon, rayon-cotton combination, silk and pure rayon. The latter is in greatest demand and produced in the greatest number by the mill.

Before the young German salesman left the office he explained he will travel to Canada and Mexico and return home after being in North America about six months. "We just started selling machines to the States," Rosenkrantz said. "We sold in other countries before but couldn't sell here because, of course you know, we lost the war." He said the American agency has been handling German equipment for the past year and have sold quite a few machines.

Gottier wasn't in the market, however. He explained he just purchased two modern machines only recently and with the textile business unbalanced at present, would not consider investing at this time.

A family-owned corporation is Gottier Ribbon Mills. Other officials are Carl Gottier, the president's brother who serves as vice president and treasurer and Mrs.

National Family Week

"Brotherhood Begins at Home" is the theme of the tenth annual observance of National Family Week, which started Sunday and continues until Sunday, May 11.

The observance has been widely endorsed by Catholics, Protestants and Jews who herald the week as one in which maintenance of family relations, one with the other, is again brought to the fore as a salient part of our way of life.

President Truman, in remarking on this observance, said "without the guidance of God and without the spiritual qualities within ourselves as courage, honor, unselfishness, steadfastness, idealism and love, the ablest of our military, political and industrial leaders cannot give us peace. In furthering this action, people everywhere will be inspired by the knowledge that three great faiths, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant, are finding a common religious motivation in their devotion to our country and to the families which generate the moral power of our democracy."

Let us all so live that National Family Week will be actuality every week in the year.

A Fatal "Cure"

By unanimous vote of its convention delegates the Textile Workers Union, CIO, calls upon Congress to enforce a 35-hour week in cotton and woolen mills without reduction of present wages for a 40-hour week. It also wants limitations put upon the number of shifts to be worked.

These demands are actuated by a serious recession—not to call it a depression—in the textile trades. The union aims to spread the available work and so reduce or eliminate unemployment and part-time work. The end may be justifiable, but the means of reaching it which the union proposes could only make a bad situation worse.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The Defense Department in Washington is assisting President Truman in the imposition of a labor government on the United States.

None of us has voted for a Labor Government, such as voters in England recently shook off their backs, but this hasn't deterred Mr. Truman. He is doing it by executive fiat. And Defense Department officials are grubbing around in politics and labor-management disputes, including the steel plant seizure, at the behest of the President and the little would-be dictators who advise him at the White House.

The Defense department was established by Congress to handle military matters. Its top civilian officials are responsible for general administration over-all policy. Nowhere in the legislation which set up the department is there any authorization for officials to serve as political operators for the President.

When Mr. Truman decreed that the last nine months of national policy-making under his administration would be dictated by organized labor, he expected and got total cooperation from the Defense department. These recent incidents prove it. These are countless others, but the three are indicative of the President's conviction that leaders of CIO, the A. F. of L. and sundry other union bosses know what is best for the U.S.A.

For instance, in announcing a new defense contract for a Detroit automobile plant, the Defense department first cleared the contract with Walter Reuther, head of the C.I.O. auto workers. Reuther conferred with Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant Secretary of Defense, and then left the Pentagon to announce that the Defense department was awarding the contract to a firm with which his union holds a contract. Apparently, this was the media by which the company learned that its bid for the contract had been accepted.

Reuther stated that he would continue to confer with Defense department officials from time to time on the placement of contracts for war materials.

Another incident of even more pertinence occurred at the time Charles E. Wilson quit as National Defense Mobilizer. Wilson didn't say so in so many words, but he implied that Mr. Truman double crossed him nine ways from Sunday. He said that he had an agreement with the President to try for a labor-management compromise in the steel wage dispute. But he said he had no sooner returned to Washington after talking to the President in Key West, than C.I.O. president Philip Murray or "one of his cohorts" called Mr. Truman and set him straight on what the union wanted.

And what the union wanted was not what the President or Wilson thought it should get. It was a bigger raise in pay and a tighter lid on steel prices. The chore of satisfying the union was handed to Nathan Feinsinger, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, who had been making telephone calls to the President via the back door at the same time Wilson and Mr. Truman were agreeing face to face on what the union should get. Feinsinger is a long time foe of the Taft-Hartley law, which may be one reason why Mr. Truman ducked using it to help settle the steel dispute.

A third indication of Defense department and White House kow-towing to labor occurred during the recent threat of a steel strike. Nathan Witt, described on numerous occasions as a Communist, who is currently a legal advisor to copper producing unions, was bowed in and out of the Pentagon as though the fate of the nation hinged on his frowns.

All in all it adds up to a labor government of the U.S.A. whether we like it or not. The union bosses, including Communist lawyers, are calling the turn now and will be for another nine months. Let's hope it ends there, but if they keep on at the present pace it probably will be too late to rectify the damage.

After all, there are a few other wise men in America besides Reuther and Murray and the fumbling boss of the A. F. of L., William Green. But Mr. Truman doesn't think so, hence we'll have to take it until he trots back to Missouri for a long vacation.

What the textile union asks would increase the cost of producing cotton and woolen goods. Instead of improving the volume of sales, which is presently low, higher production costs would hamper the mills in offering price inducement to buyers. But only greater sales volume will put more men to work.

The textile union's resolutions are one of too many current expressions of blind faith in a government's power to defy common sense. The Federal Government itself, most notably at the moment the officials of its stabilization agencies, share that unfortunate delusion. They are now urging Congress to prolong the wage and price "controls" of the Defense Production Act beyond their present expiry date of June 30 next, the very devices which have brought the steel industry and the defense program dependent on it to the threshold of disaster—Wall Street Journal.

Man About Town

Hedy Lamarr, who recently announced she would never marry again, is expected to become Mrs. Allan Chase this summer.

Pals hear that Celeste Holm, who just got her marital freedom, has her next groom picked out. Linda Darnell's current diversion is Italian actor Gino Cervi. Tallulah Bankhead and Betty Kean were parted in time at the Ethel Merman party. Gov. Dewey of Mass. and a WAVE (stationed at Washington) are on fire!

Debra Paget's mother is unhappy about her choice. A wealthy socialite. Leon Henderson's daughter Lynn is in love. He is Columbus grid star Howard Hanson. Peter Lawford and Sharran Douglas, once devoted, are out-glaring each other. Garbo's other feller is Roger Dann, last seen in "The Happy Time". Brigadier-General Holbrook's daughter Joanne weds Gen. Patton's son George on June 14th.

The R. J. Reynolds divorce charges are strictly for the headlines as of now. Both sides, as we recently reported, haven't the evidence to prove adultery. Mrs. Reynolds (Marianne O'Brien) is trying her darndest, she says, "to keep it clean". Johnny Meyer's romance with Greta Thyssen is fading. Coasters suspect he will again marry Patricia Lydon, whom he married twice. Don Simmons, the publicist, weds French socialite Marcelle Reynaud, niece of the former French Premier, in June. Borden Stevenson and his pater, the Gov. of Illinois, are tiffing. The lad wants to marry before graduating from Harvard. A famous Dallas merchant, in a Park Avenue fight, slashed his opponent with a pen knife. Attorneys for both sides are trying to keep it out of the gazettes.

Rafael Trujillo, Jr., son of the Latin-American dictator, is courting Park Avenue's Mildred Rothman. Art Gruenther lost the NATO job because he has no sense of personal publicity. After Ridgway got it, a newsman murmured "Gruenther knows everything except how to tout his own horn". Eleanor Holm was huddling with Mike Todd, who hasn't a swimming star event yet for his Jones Beach event. Tab Hunter, who co-stars with Linda Darnell in his very first film ("Island of Desire"), weds Joyce Lockwood of the Sonja Henie Ice Show any day. Ina Ray Hutton has jilted television to resume with her all-girl band. Selena Walters, in and out of the courts (husband-trouble), has a new heart; Jockey Jackie Westrope. Mike Romanoff is giving out "I Like Mike" buttons.

The Senate Judiciary Comm. will again attack Judge McGranery's nomination as Atty's Gen'l—charging that he has already given orders to the Justice Dept. on important issues, despite the fact he has not been confirmed. Ambassador F. P. Corrigan's son Robert F. (he's the new U. S. consul at Dakar) weds C. Jane Carswell of Glen Falls, N. Y., on the 15th. The "Moon is Blue" cast were upset no end Thursday night when a group of Southerners shouted: "This is the filthiest show we've ever seen!" and then walked out. White House staffer D. Niles tells friends to discount the persistent talk that Truman will accept a draft. "Not under any conditions!" is the quote. From the col'm of Apr. 21: "Best Bet to win the Derby, according to the Lindy's crowd: The Ben Jones horse Hill Gail. Sure to wind up in the money."

Top Repubs are gunning for Phil Regan, the singer-chum of Tom Demps. They brag about a "dossier". Jock Coleman, the Gillette heir, and Virginia Bailey have reconciled. Medics can't figure what ails Mals Powers. She's being fed intravenously. Peggy Joyce got $75,000 for her film life-saga. She used to get that much for just fluttering her lashes. J. Barrymore, Jr., has been tapped for his Army physical. A Cong. Coleman, has evidence that a Red agent (never before mentioned) infiltrated the Henry Luce staffs. A U. S. citizen, a Soviet spy since 1937. Still on the payroll, but no longer on Time.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Truman vs. Constitution
I have been receiving mail on the subject of the Constitution, and I find that some of the writers speak of the Constitution as a dogma and they ask whether human welfare is to be sacrificed to dogma.

It cannot be incidental that this question is raised. For many generations, the youth of this country have been getting a dose of the concept that whatever is dogmatic is per se wrong; that there are no absolutes about anything, not even the Ten Commandments. These generations of young people were taught that the economic basis for society and life is paramount; that all the developments of the human mind are the product of the economic environment of the moment. Therefore, the Constitution is not basic but is a product of the economic environment of the United States in 1787. That environment has since changed; therefore, the Constitution is inadequate today.

The fallacy of this doctrine is that the very existence of the United States derives from the Constitution. The Civil War was fought over the right to secede from the Union, a right which was claimed because the Constitution is a contract among the States, each one agreeing to abide by it. It was not adopted by the United States but by each State. Should the Constitution fall, the alternative to our form, representative government by and for free individuals, can only be some form of totalitarian government for an enslaved people. The Constitution has proved over 163 years to be a practical document; in fact, it has survived all other similar arrangements, including the unwritten British Constitution, which is really an accumulation of habits, traditions and acts of legislation.

The men who wrote the Constitution were concerned with power. There was no antipathy to England, the mother country; there was profound objection to the use of economic and political power to reduce a people to bondage. Therefore, those who labored over the Constitution, practical men, who had themselves fought in the Revolutionary War, devoted themselves to the question of power and determined that they would set up a form of government in which no one would rule.

Alexander Hamilton wrote: "... history will teach us ... that of those men who have overturned the liberties of republics, the greatest number have begun their career by paying an obsequious court to the people; commencing demagogues, and ending tyrants."

Actually, it is more evil to corrupt the law, to subvert the law, than to violate the law.

Murder, Inc., violated the law. These men engaged in murder for hire. Some of them murdered each other; some of them were punished by the courts. Their acts in no manner weakened the law against murder.

On the other hand, the Kefauver Investigation opened our eyes to the effort of gangsters to corrupt the law, to use wiles and devices to make the law ineffective or even to remove the law altogether, weakening the state and reducing the resistance of the people to general immorality. This covert activity, evil in itself, produces national diseases because not only are officials corrupted and the law lessened, but the people become subservient to those who obtain power by a collusion of gangster and official.

Mr. Truman challenges the nature of our society by seeking power where it does not exist. The right to rule is nowhere established in the American Constitution, which insists upon limited powers in each branch of government, so that at no time, in no circumstances, would it be possible for an official to use unlimited power to serve a particular purpose. The President of the United States is not a ruler; he is an instrument created by the Constitution to perform particular tasks.

The argument has been set forth that as Mr. Truman will not be a candidate for President, he can have no intention of expanding personal power. That is beside the point, which is that whenever an attempt is made to weaken the authority of the Constitution and to subvert the law, it must be fought because the law transcends personalities. If Truman had only one more day to serve, it would be necessary to take the Steel Seizure Case up to the Supreme Court to reiterate the inviolability of the Constitution.

This is not dogma; it is the preservation of liberty. It is the safeguarding of our personal freedoms.

Try And Stop Me

In the heart of the Ozarks, novelist Louis Bromfield lost his way and inquired of a native. "Am I on the road for Kansas City?" "Not exactly, Bud," said the native. "That road just moseys along for a piece, then it turns into a hog trail, then a squirrel track, and finally runs up a scrub pine and ends in a knothole."

On a radio panel, Robert Q. Lewis asked a girl what she wanted most in a husband: money, brains, or appearance. She answered without hesitation, "Appearance—and the sooner the better!"

A draftee, just up from Harvard, finished his first day of close-order drill under a hard-boiled top sergeant, and at the command "At ease," murmured, "How wonderful is death?" "Who said that?" barked the sergeant, wheeling about. The draftee meekly replied, "Shelley, I believe, sir."

Hollywood — "Don't say I'm evading taxes," big, gangling Ed (Archie) Gardner grinned as we parted; "Just avoiding 'em."

The proprietor of radio's presently defunct Duffy's Tavern admitted that he profits, taxwise, by living in Puerto Rico. "But I still pay taxes in the United States—a helluva lot more than a lot of my critics."

He sounded more like a traveling booster for life in the Caribbean.

"You can relax down there. We have 365 days a year of sunshine, even on part of the days it rains. I'm closer to New York, my home town, than I was here. The old lady"—his wife, Simone—"doesn't need fur; it's too warm. Servants are $45 a month. I built a house, a dream joint, for about half what it would cost here. My kids—Stevie, 4, and Eddie, 8—"know two languages."

Gardner is back to film an hour-long installment of Duffy's Tavern to be telecast over NBC's All-Star Revue on May 31. Neatrice MacDonald and Rudy Vallee will be his guests.

"I plan now to do six to 10 of the shows next year," the midget comedian said sprawling in a chair of his Beverly Hills hotel suite. "If I think it up they can take me out. If I don't make any dough on it, I can go home."

Ed's paid a package price for his show. "I thought I could do it for around 12 grand. It's beginning to look like it may be 20."

He hopes to market the films as theater movies in non-TV areas.

"Home," he said, is and will remain Puerto Rico. Gardner moved there three years ago to take advantage of the island's "Operation Bootstrap." The Puerto Rican government declared a tax holiday until 1961, he said, on certain businesses for which

The Once Over

Why Parents Go Mad

It begins to look as if not even God can win a case before the United States Supreme Court without a dissenting opinion by three or four of its members. The gods of all faiths had to be content with a six-to-three decision recently when Justices Frankfurter, Jackson and Black saw something wrong about the public schools releasing small fry for an hour a week, at their parents' request, for a spiritual fortification of character.

The average parent, deeply worried about his children's spiritual side in an age of frightful juvenile delinquencies, was left bleeding and dazed by the fact the highest court in the country could come up with a split decision over whether it busts the constitution wide open and opens the republic to destruction if Little Willie is freed from school in order to get a little religious instruction in any church, chapel, synagogue or meeting house.

"I've got to fight crime blueprints in the movies, radio and video; I've got to fight the influence of street-corner hoodlums. I've got to fight my children's weird impulses in a screwball era. I've got to fight evil influence in a thousand places that can make bums and criminals out of my kids—and NOW I'VE GOT TO FIGHT THE SUPREME COURT!" exclaimed one hand-wringing mother today.

We explained that only Justices Frankfurter, Black and Jackson would make it tough for her, and that the six other members voted to uphold state board of education rules permitting kids to leave school an hour a week for maybe a little contact with the Bible.

Believe it or not, the dissenters held that coercion was involved. exemptions were granted. Glove, belt, china, brasserie and about 150 other industries besides Gardner moved in. Ed taped his radio show there on a modern San Juan station.

Gardner said he pays taxes to Puerto Rico on sugar stock he owns and to the U. S. on stock dividends here. His actors, writers, and technicians, numbering up to 200 when he was producing a movie in Puerto Rico, pay taxes to Puerto Rico.

Court Sentences Men To 5-10 Years On Burglary Charges

Benson, Cope Enter Pleas To Two Counts

Two burglars—one of whom fired a shot at State police last month—were given five to 10-year penitentiary sentences yesterday by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Orland T. Benson, 34, Etowah, Tenn., and Reginald A. Cope, 45, Portland, RD2, Tenn., pleaded guilty to the charges of burglary.

They also pleaded guilty of carrying concealed weapons. On this charge they were sentenced to three years in jail. The sentences for burglary and carrying concealed weapons are to run concurrently.

The court instructed Sheriff Jacob Altomero to take the pair to Eastern Penitentiary within 10 days.

The two were taken into court during the morning session yesterday. They requested counsel, and the court later appointed Attorneys Alex Bensinger and Forrest Mervine to represent the two.

Cope and Benson reappeared in court during the afternoon and, with little ado, pleaded guilty to the charges.

Pfc. Ed Beneski of the Stroudsburg substation, was the only one to take the witness stand. At District Attorney Elmer D. Christine's request he told of Benson breaking into the kitchen of the Fred R. Ducklow residence on Route 611 opposite CLU park, on April 14.

Mrs. Ducklow, who was home at the time, later identified Benson as the burglar, Beneski said.

The pair was arrested by Cpl. Carson Overgard of the Mount Pocono substation. Overgard and Beneski handcuffed the pair and put them in the back seat of a police car, Beneski said.

"Just as we reached Stroudsburg," Beneski continued, "Benson asked if there was a jail in the town."

"I said yes there was, and we'd soon be there. Then Benson put something in my back and said it was a gun."

Benson told the trooper to keep driving through town and out into the country, Beneski said.

"I looked over my shoulder and saw it was a gun," Beneski said. The trooper then steered the car down an alley off Ninth and Monroe Sts., Stroudsburg, stopped, and swung around to grab for the gun, he said.

Beneski said Benson fired once. The slug went out through the side of the car. Beneski said Overgard had already drawn his own gun, and the two policemen wrestled the .32 automatic pistol away from Benson before he could fire again.

In the days of questioning which followed, the two Tennesseans told police of a string of daylight burglaries stretching from Georgia to Monroe County, and accomplished within a period of about two weeks.

The only criminal record reported in court against the two men was a faulty check charge which had been lodged against Cope. The check was for $25, and the matter had been disposed of and restitution made, it was stated.

Counsel Mervine and Bensinger agreed that the two men acted wisely in pleading guilty. Attorney Bensinger offered the information that Benson had served in the Navy for many years, had received an honorable discharge, and had spent some time in a naval hospital psychopathic ward in San Diego, Cal.

Cope, counsel said, had served in the medical corps of the Army, had been wounded in Italy, and was discharged with a disability.

The sheriff's office said yesterday that three detainees have been received on Cope and Benson.

One, from Cecil County, Md., charged them with stealing a shotgun, rifle, suit of clothes and some fountain pens from the residence of Charles W. Pearson of that county.

Another, from Brandywine Hundred, Del., charged the two with breaking and entering, and larceny of a pistol, camera, photo equipment and jewelry from the home of Sturgis M. Fay of that city.

The third detainee was issued by Northampton County authorities. It charged Cope and Benson with burglary and larceny at the summer home of Leonard Harris of Upper Mount Bethel Township.

Grand Jurors To Consider Only One Case

The lightest session in years faces the Monroe County grand jury today. Only one case is scheduled for presentation by District Attorney Elmer D. Christine.

The jury may be able to dispose of its criminal case work and complete its inspection of county facilities within the day.

The case to be presented involves a charge of involuntary manslaughter against Jack Sustek, 43, Astoria, L. I., N. Y.

He was driver of a car in which Joseph Fody, 46, Bloomfield, N. J., was killed March 9 near Kresgeville. Fody was Sustek's brother-in-law.

The car ran off the highway and struck a service pole.

Formerly, the first Monday of the month in which there was a regular court session was given over to grand jury work. Under the present system, however, yesterday was devoted to disposing of a number of pending cases, and the jury was instructed to convene today.

Teacher Fined $150, Costs

For failing to stop immediately at the scene of an accident, a New York City school teacher yesterday was fined $150 and costs by President Judge Fred W. Davis.

Pfc. Evan Chaplin said the teacher, Albert Field, 36, failed to stop after his car collided with a bakery truck April 12 on Route 611, a mile and a half north of Stroudsburg.

The truck was owned by John Hecht, 57, 116 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Chaplin testified the school teacher was arrested some 20 miles from the scene.

Field pleaded guilty of the charge, told the court he could not make it "right" but could make it "reasonable." The teacher went on to describe the accident, saying he allowed his "better judgment to be swayed."

The teacher paid the fine and costs.

172 Rochez Workers Idle

Tobyhanna — All of Rochez Brothers' 172 employees at the Signal Corps construction project here were off the job yesterday as a strike of operating engineers continued.

Not all the 172 were on strike. A project spokesman explained that members of the Teamsters and Laborers Union have no work to do when the operating engineers are not busy. Teamsters accordingly did not work yesterday. Only Rochez men still on the job are a few maintenance men.

Of the employees of Consolidated Construction Co., building warehouses and foundations at the project, about 150 were working yesterday, it was reported.

Those working included carpenters, laborers and cleanup men whose jobs do not depend directly on what the engineers do. Consolidated also employs some engineers. They are out on strike, too.

Thomas Kelly, Consolidated's job superintendent, was reported still conferring with union officials, but no agreements were reached.

The strike is part of a drive to win a 40-cent hourly increase all over Eastern Pennsylvania by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Merchants Suggest Meter Zone Extension As Means Of Easing Parking Problem

The extension of the Stroudsburg parking meter area to include Main St. between Eighth and Ninth Sts., will be recommended to Borough Council for immediate action, according to a motion passed by the Stroudsburg Business Men's Association at the monthly dinner meeting held at Log Cabin Inn last night.

The association is also asking council to consider including other streets for metered parking, namely: Monroe St. between Sixth and Eighth, Sixth St. between Monroe and Sarah, and Eighth St. between Main and Monroe with Monroe St. being made a one-way street.

Motor Bike Rider Given Jail Sentence

A six-month jail sentence was ordered yesterday for Carl Hinehine, 28, of 467 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, for riding his motor bicycle while intoxicated.

An additional sentence of six months for driving while his license was under suspension was ordered to run concurrently with the first sentence.

Hinehine pleaded guilty before President Judge Fred W. Davis.

He was arrested by Pfc. Emil J. Weber Jan. 20 on Route 209 between East Stroudsburg and Marshalls Creek. On the stand, Weber said Hinehine had been "weaving all over the road."

Weber brought out that Hinehine had been charged twice before with driving while intoxicated, in August 1946 and February 1950.

Hinehine was committed to the county jail to begin sentence.

Defendant Pleads Guilty

Harry Whitmore, 20, of Ave. E. N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty yesterday of obtaining money fraudulently from the Department of Public Assistance.

A DPA official testified Whitmore fraudulently collected $98.10 from DPA while he was working. President Judge Fred W. Davis ordered Whitmore to repay the $98.10 and pay costs of prosecution. Whitmore was further ordered to pay $50 and an amount equal to the prosecution costs to the use of Monroe County. The court said the youth could make the payments in installments. Sentencing on the fraud charge was suspended.

Whitmore is free, after making the initial payment.

Concert Puts Radium Fund Nearer Goal

Frank S. LaBar, president of the board of the General Hospital, expressed the appreciation of the board to the artists who last night presented a concert for the benefit of the hospital's radium fund at Stroudsburg High School auditorium.

The audience expressed its appreciation of the music by their applause which demanded encore after encore from Karen Kemple, soprano soloist, and the Young People's Orchestra.

Mr. LaBar presented a bouquet of flowers to Miss Kemple, who in private life is Mrs. Allen Roth, and announced that due to the work of last night's musicians, and the generosity of the auxiliaries and individuals the hospital's radium fund lacked only $273 of its goal.

Miss Kemple, singing for the first time to local audiences, was given an ovation, and during her group of songs by Grieg, delighted the audience by tossing her flower to her daughter, Robyn, in the first row. Robyn promptly joined her on the stage, and it was to her that she sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" in both the English and original Danish.

Her other songs included Puccini's "One Fine Day," and Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful" and she gave generously of her energies.

The orchestra, too, was received with enthusiasm, as under the direction of Thomas Knepp they presented a varied program with skill and feeling. Numa Snyder, violinist, and Earl Groner Jr., trombonist.

Two Men Fined $300 For Driving While Intoxicated

Charles Bogart, 41, of 296 Broad St., Stroudsburg, was fined $300 and costs by President Judge Fred W. Davis after pleading guilty of driving while intoxicated. Bogart was arrested March 23 by Pfc. Emil J. Weber of the Stroudsburg substation. Bogart, a laborer, was freed yesterday after paying the fine.

A plea of guilty of driving while intoxicated was made in court yesterday by Clarence LeRoy Stumpff Jr., 23, of 312 Wallace St., Stroudsburg.

He was fined $300 and costs by Judge Davis.

Stumpff was arrested Jan. 12 by East Stroudsburg Officers Louis Caramella and Donald Quick. The police said they watched Stumpff driving erratically west from East Stroudsburg to Stroudsburg.

The court permitted Stumpff, a foundry worker, to pay the fine in installments.

University Women End Year With Supper, Play Reading

The American Association of University Women closed its club year with a dinner meeting last night at the Stroud Community House, which had been decorated with apple blossoms and Spring flowers for the buffet table and the smaller tables where members and their guests were seated.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Henry Slaboski, president, reported on the extra-curricular events of the year which included studies on the "Agencies of the U. N.," "Divided Germany," and the "Point Four Program" by the International Relations group; studies of "Psychology for the Laymen" and "Why Public Assistance," arranged by the Social Studies group; the survey of candidates during the fall election and a study of tax problems of Pennsylvania, by the legislative group; the "School for Parents" and the "College Punch" arranged by the education committee, and the Book Fair for the benefit of Fellowship.

Mrs. Robert Hartman gave the report of the auditing committee. Announcement was made of the Northeast region meeting at Pennbrook College, Brown University beginning June 5 which Dr. Veva Dean will attend.

Mrs. Claude Leister announced that Dr. Herbert Lorenz would speak on "The Point Four Program" at the International Relations study group meeting at her home on Thursday, May 8.

Dr. Veva Dean and Mrs. J. L. Cohen reported on the recent district meeting in Bethlehem and Mrs. Harold C. Edwards read proposed legislative emphasis for the national AAUW which were approved.

After Mrs. Slaboski had presented next year's slate of officers, shown above, Dr. Dean, new president, introduced Miss Katherine MacFarland, head of the speech department at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who presented a dramatic reading of a cutting from a one-act play.

Mrs. Roger Dunning was chairman of the supper committee.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's a very satisfactory feeling to be full of good food, or good music, or good news, and when in one night you can stock up on all three, a social editor's life is triply blessed.

Never doubt that University Women can cook—their supper was super, and there were so many people to be happy for: Mrs. Leister for Ann's nice finance, and Mrs. Cohen for Michael's winning the mathematics contest; and Julia Sieg for all her winners; and Lena Slaboski for a term well-completed.

Drama, we had, too with Kay MacFarland demonstrating ably why she's head of the speech department; and then a little unexpected drama when Robyn Roth joined her mother on the stage at the concert.

You could be happy, too, at the size of the crowd and at their enthusiasm for the orchestra and for Karen Roth, whose songs carried well beyond the auditorium and into the corridors where the AAUW life corners were lurking.

And happy, too for the Gradale

Ann Chandler Engaged To Vere J. Banks

Dr. and Mrs. Claude W. Leister, of Foxtown Hill, have announced the engagement of Mrs. Leister's daughter, Miss Ann Chandler, to Vere J. Banks, son of Mrs. Vere J. Banks of North Fifth St., Stroudsburg, and the late Mr. Banks, for many years a member of the Stroudsburg High School faculty.

The prospective bride, daughter also of John P. Chandler of New York City and Westport, Conn., is a senior at Pennsylvania State College where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She is an alumna of Tudor Hall School in Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Chandler is a granddaughter of Mrs. Tremont Miller of Franklin, Ind., and the late Judge Miller, and of J. E. Chandler of Two Harbors, Minn., and the late Mrs. Chandler.

Mr. Banks was graduated from Stroudsburg High School, and from Lehigh University in 1948, with a degree in industrial engineering, and received an additional degree in mechanical engineering from the same university in 1949. He is connected with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Cornwall, Pa.

Womans Club Officers In Final Meeting

The final meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Club for the current year was held at the Stroud Community House yesterday afternoon. President Mrs. George T. Robinson, introduced Mrs. James Cummings, president of the Junior section who opened the meeting with the club collect.

Mrs. Walter Caulfield, first vice president and welfare chairman, announced that 52 babies had visited the clinic during the month, including two new ones.

Mrs. Parke Kunkle, second vice president and program chairman, reported on plans for next year's meetings and announced that the regular meeting on Monday, May 12, would feature Miss H. Eloise Bryan as speaker, and Mrs. W. R. Levering, music chairman announced that Mrs. Lucy Quig and Mrs. Louise Ott will play duo-piano numbers.

Mrs. A. A. Holbrook thanked the club for their part as hostesses to the county federation, and Mrs. Frank French for serving as county president during her illness. Mrs. James Cummings, Junior president, thanked the senior officers for their cooperation during the year.

Mrs. Alphonse Meyers spoke on the new voting machines and urged members to become familiar with them before election time. Mrs. Floyd Bachman described correspondence in behalf of the American Home committee; and Mrs. I. B. Kiffin, chairman of legislation, urged all members to be interested in politics.

An auditing committee composed of Mrs. Howard Eckert, Mrs. Gerald Shanley and Mrs. Eugene Martin was appointed to audit the books; and Mrs. William Toewe, chairman of ways and means, reported on hospital stationery.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. George T. Robinson, Mrs. Frank French, Mrs. Claude Cramer, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Eugene Martin, Mrs. Alphonse Meyers, Mrs. Paul Lloyd, Mrs. Walter Caulfield, Mrs. Oram Hoffman, Mrs. A. A. Holbrook, Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Mrs. Parke Kunkle, Mrs. Frank Grimm, Mrs. Gerald Shanley, Mrs. James Cummings, Mrs. E. R. Levering, Mrs. Harold Eaton, Mrs. I. B. Kiffin and Mrs. William Toewe.

Mothers Day Program At School Wed.

Middle Smithfield — The annual Mothers' Day program at the Middle Smithfield Consolidated School will be held on Wednesday night, May 7, rather than on Friday as originally planned. It was decided at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting last week.

The program will be given at the school on Wednesday night at 8, and at that time the new officers will be installed for the coming year: president, Mrs. Joseph C. Squires; vice president, Joe Shoemaker; secretary, Mrs. Joan Place; treasurer, Bertha Rosenberger; hot lunch secretary, Mrs. Helen Brink and public relations, Mrs. John Richards. Plans were also announced for the alumni dance to be held May 16.

Following the PTA business meeting, a panel discussion was held with teachers, school board and parents represented on the panel.

Among the subjects brought up was that of the honor roll published after each marking period. The general consensus seemed to be that it was unjust to some of the children who did the best work of which they were capable without ever being able to

No Meeting Tonight
The Woman's Guild of the Grace Lutheran Church will not meet tonight, as announced, but on a week from tonight.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"Pete Wyckoff certainly missed his calling," one of our customers remarked yesterday. "Did you see him at last night's auction? I never enjoyed anything quite so much." And that's not the only compliment he merited as Easy Dough auctioneer. Having a gift for saying funny things and keeping events running full speed ahead, Pete made of the sale one of the finest entertainments—the local public has enjoyed in many a moon.

Yesterday I was looking over the list of winners, and the merchandise which they purchased with their proxy money. It was really amazing to see at what price some of the best buys had been knocked down... the chrome breakfast set, for instance, which went to Mrs. Andy Farris of Barnum St., East Stroudsburg. Valued at $135, this was sold for a mere $450, in that delightful folding money which Wyckoff's GIVES you with every cash purchase or payment on account. I was unable to reach Mrs. Farris on the telephone, but I know how she would have responded to a question as to whether or not she liked our auction... don't you? A gift like that isn't an every day occurrence, as everybody knows.

I did reach one of our successful bidders by telephone, however, and she was still bubbling over with mirth and excitement. When she responded to our ring, our conversation went something like this: "Is this Mrs. George Woelke?" "Yes, this Mrs. George Woelke." "This is the Wyckoff Shopper and I understand that you attended our auction Friday night. I missed it because of our circus excursion and I wondered if you'd tell me frankly just what you thought of it?"

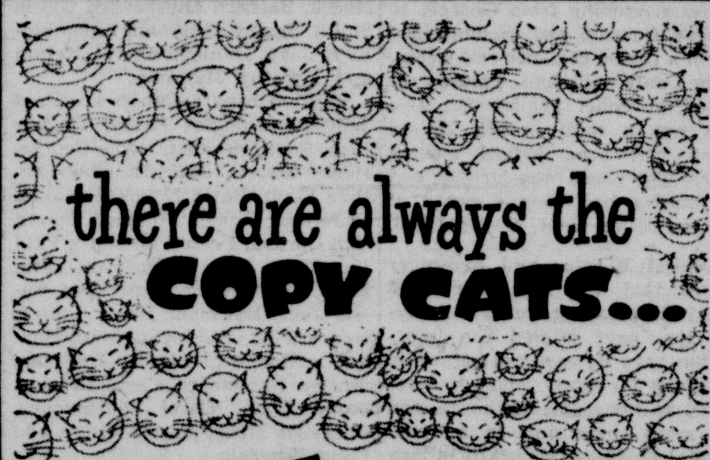

"Oh... it was WONDERFUL," came the reply. "Just wonderful. Very, very fine. We should have lots more of them. And so funny too."

"Is that your honest opinion?" I prodded. "You really felt everything was run as it should have been?"

"Oh, my yes... it was very good. And so fair too. Nothing went too high. I wanted that 3-piece luggage set because I go to Florida every winter and that was really the only thing I needed. And I got all three pieces for only $280. It's from Sears-Roebuck and they even let me change the color from red to tan. That's something that never happened at any auction I attended before. I had a lovely time, so now I'm hustling up more money for this Friday night."

Wyckoff Department Store Announces Appointment Of Kerlin As General Manager

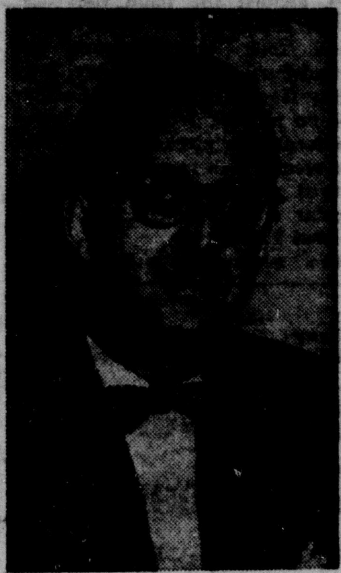

Ernest H. Wyckoff, president of A. B. Wyckoff, Inc., yesterday announced the appointment of Jack L. Kerlin to the newly established office of general manager of the Wyckoff Department Store. The announcement came as a birthday present to Mr. Kerlin, who was born in Stroudsburg on May 5, 1902.

A great grandson of Daniel Wyckoff, who, with his brother Jacob, was one of the store's original founders, Mr. Kerlin is the only executive of the company descended from that branch of the Wyckoff family. Throughout his life he has been almost constantly associated with the store, having served as stock boy and as he describes it, "jack of all trades" during his vacations from high school and college.

A graduate of Stroudsburg High School with the class of 1920, Mr. Kerlin furthered his education at Lehigh University and the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania. He later entered the automobile business with James Loder of East Stroudsburg, selling Franklin cars, an experience which led to his becoming sales manager of the Franklin Company in Allentown, and then taking over his own Franklin agency in Pottstown.

Mr. Kerlin returned to the Stroudsburg in 1928, at which time he became associated with the Wyckoff store in the electrical appliance department. During this period he gradually assumed greater responsibilities throughout the merchandising departments, and in 1939 he assumed the position of credit manager, in addition to his other duties. In 1940 he became a member of the board of directors of the Wyckoff corporation, and was elected secretary. By 1944, he had risen to the office of vice president of the company, a post which he combined with that of secretary, and his scope of merchandising supervision was broadened.

Mr. Kerlin explains that his present appointment in no way reflects policy changes. "Company policies," he states, "have been effectively instilled into Wyckoff executives through many years of successful merchandising history, by Mr. Ernest H. Wyckoff and the members of the family who preceded him. These will, of course, continue."

A member and past president of the board of trustees of First Presbyterian Church, Mr. Kerlin, who resides at 721 Scott Street, is married to the former Marian Kresge of Stroudsburg. Their daughter, Carol Ann, is a student in the junior high school here.

Board To Hear State Report On Route 611

Portland — This community's Board of Trade will hear an address Wednesday, May 14 on the condition of Route 611 and future developments being prepared by the State.

Otto Hockrein, president, has announced the meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Grandview. Speaker will be the district engineer for the State, J. Boyer, who will answer questions relative to the new bridge construction and its effect on the highway. He also will explain landslide control.

Possible installation of fire hydrants for residents of the old road through Stateford and past the cemetery also will be considered. Hockrein has stated the homes in this area are not protected and insurance rates are being paid by 20 to 30 persons in excess because of the unprotected section. Persons interested are urged to attend the meeting. Hockrein said.

About 90 million banana stems (big bunches) are shipped in world trade annually.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A recent decision by the Stroud Courier, the student publication at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, to honor Carl E. Stots, founder of Little League baseball, with the newspaper's annual award, is in line for the firm congratulations of this column. The decision was not only very wise, but extremely timely. The move will do the area, the school and Little League baseball the world of good. The award is scheduled to be presented on Saturday, May 17, at the paper's annual banquet.

Stots first began Little League baseball late in the 1930s in Williamsport, and the game of baseball specially designed for youngsters from eight to 12-years of age has spread like wild fire ever since. Monroe County really adopted the sport officially last summer, and since that time it has been the talk of the area. The honoring of Stots right here in our own back yard will do even more to support the growing game in this area. The founder of Little League baseball will be able to see for himself just how much the sport has grown in the short space of one year in this locality.

We now have three leagues, the Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Pocono Mountain circuits, two official parks almost completed in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and one to be built in Barrett. The program in the various areas within Monroe County have progressed at a rapid rate and now are the talk of the town, not only in the summer months but during the winter as well. I believe that Stots will be well pleased with the manner in which the Monroe County Little League program has progressed in the short space of a single season.

The Courier award annually goes to someone outstanding in journalism or public service. Last year it was won by James N. Thurston and Scott Thurston, father and brother respectively of Jim Thurston, who did a great job of sports publicity up on Normal Hill prior to graduation last June. Young Jim is now social director at Pocono Gardens Lodge. Both the Thurstons were honored for outstanding achievements in journalism at last year's banquet.

Pocono A.C. will open its gates to the community Sunday, when all fans in the area will be admitted to Gordon Giffels field free of charge, to see Manager Johnny Schoonover's crew tangle with the Portland Apollos, regarded by many as the top club in the Blue Mountain League this season. In an effort to combat the mounting cost of operation, the local Blue Mountain entry will pass the hat for a collection during the course of the ball game. The support of the community will be greatly appreciated.

Frank Marakovits, Nazareth High's great running back in football, was in left field for Stocktown against Pocono A. C. on Sunday, and is certainly one of the best players on the Stocktown roster. Marakovits, who also played for Stocktown last season, is ineligible for baseball at Nazareth, due to age. "Chuck" Sorber, former catcher with Berwick, of the North Atlantic League, is now holding down a similar position with Harrisburg, of the class "B" Interstate League.

Alex Hoyle, former Carbondale hurler, when the North Atlantic League was still in operation, started a game recently for Wilmington, in the Interstate League, but was relieved early. Ted Wieland, former Slatington High and Coplay American Legion pitcher, worked in relief for Allentown, of the Interstate circuit, against Salisbury recently, but wasn't credited with the victory. Wieland has pitched many times in the Stroudsburg and Bangor areas.

Stroudsburg High will send a note of protest to the Lehigh Valley League president for the balk called on Alben "Red" Fetherman at Palmerston last week. The umpire's decision resulted in Palmerston winning, as the lead run in a 2-1 verdict was forced across the plate. Fetherman faked a pick off throw to third and then turned and fired to first and caught the runner off the base. However, all hands were declared safe and the winning run was waved in from third.

The Daily Record Trophy will be presented to Tobyhanna Township High school's basketball team at the annual banquet tonight, as a reward for winning the Monroe County League championship for the third straight year. This is the second straight year that the people of the Pocono Pines-Pocono Lake area have held this banquet for their cage machine.

Bangor Invades Parkland Field

Bangor — Bangor High returns to Lehigh-Northampton League baseball action today, by invading the home domain of Parkland High, at 4 p. m. Parkland is one of the circuit powers this season.

The Slaters have one tie and two setbacks on their record at the present time, against league competition.

ESSTC Turns Scranton Into Fourth Diamond Victim

Werkheiser Blasts Third Home Run

Scranton — East Stroudsburg State Teachers College accounted for its fourth baseball victory of the present campaign here at Weston Field yesterday, with a comparatively easy 12-4 victory over the University of Scranton. The only slight blemish on the ESSTC record at the present time is a 3-3 tie with Rider College.

Bill "Lefty" Herring, South Sterling, had no trouble handling the Royals during his four innings on the mound for the Warriors and the lanky southpaw departed from the game with a comfortable 9-0 advantage, which his mates held without much trouble the remainder of the distance.

The big blow of the game was a towering home run by ESSTC's Jimmy Werkheiser in the first inning, with Dick Pritchard and Joe Check on base. The homer, Werkheiser's third of the campaign, carried 380 feet into left center field.

ESSTC picked up one more marker in the second, four in the third, one in the fourth and three in the ninth to win with ease.

Substitutes

Coach George Ockershausen gave virtually all of his pitchers a workout in the game, after Herring and his mates had piled up a commanding lead early in the contest.

Harry Steever, Bill Cramp, Stan Butecavage, Jim Passaro and Dick Pritchard each worked one inning.

Scranton did all its scoring in two innings, pushing a singleton into pay dirt in the sixth round and then coming back strong with three in the seventh. However, only one of the four Scranton tallies was earned.

Pritchard led the ESSTC attack with a trio of hits in five trips to the plate and also drove home three runs.

Joe Check and Tom Foley came up with a pair of hits each in a winning cause.

ESSTC is scheduled to do battle with Rider on Wednesday, on the latter's home field, at 3 p. m. Bob Mellman is slated to go to the hill for the Warriors.

Senators Crush Brownies, 13-1

Washington (AP) — Players obtained by Washington in recent trades continued to sparkle last night as the Senators mauled the St. Louis Browns 13 to 1.

Frank Shea, from the Yankees, permitted only four hits before retiring in the eighth inning with a cramped finger. Archie Wilson, another former Yankee, led the Senators' 15-hit attack with a double and two singles and batted in five runs.

Help

Jackie Jensen, also from the Yankees, and Jim Busby, from the Chicago White Sox, continued to sparkle. Jensen slammed a double and single, while Busby got two singles.

Robb Hands In Resignation As National League Umpire

Cincinnati, (AP)—Douglas "Scotty" Robb quit yesterday as a National League umpire but neither he nor league president Warren Giles would say whether it had anything to do with a recent dispute with Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals in which both Robb and Stanky were fined.

Robb, who umpired here Sunday, said:

Statement

"My resignation as a National League umpire speaks for itself. There is absolutely nothing more I will say. As far as I am concerned, the matter is a closed book."

Giles' statement in connection with the resignation said:

"Robb is a splendid gentleman and I told him we would like him to continue as a member of the staff if he felt he could work efficiently. Since he feels there is an existing situation which prevents this, we accept his resignation."

Surprise

"Anything further on this matter must come from Robb. It is a closed matter with the league office."

In St. Louis, Stanky was greatly surprised by Robb's decision. "I'm very, very sorry to hear that," Stanky said. "I always regarded Scotty Robb as a close friend, and we were as close as a player and an umpire can get in baseball, and the incident between us didn't affect that friendship."

"He was a fine umpire," Stanky added, "and a fine fellow—and on and off the field."

West Scranton Coach To Speak

Pocono Pines—Sam Donato, head football and basketball coach at West Scranton High School, will be the guest speaker at the annual Tobyhanna Township High School Athletic Banquet today at 6:30 p. m.

Donato has become well known in Eastern Pennsylvania in recent years for the strong teams, in both football and basketball, that he has produced at West Scranton High.

Guests

The TTHS basketball team, winner of the Monroe County League championship for the third straight time, will be honored at the banquet.

Plans for the annual banquet were first instituted last year and the same plans call for the affair to be held every year in the future.

Bushkill To Practice

Bushkill — Danny Eppley, manager of the Bushkill entry in the Pocono Mountains League, announced last night that his charges would hold their final practice session before the opening of the regular season on Sunday, here on the club's home field today, at 5:30 p. m.

East Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg In Action Today

East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High Schools return to the baseball wars today and each will be out to improve its standing in league competition. Stroudsburg will be at Whitehall in a Lehigh Valley League tussle, while East Stroudsburg entertains Pen Argyl at East Stroudsburg Playground. Both games get under way at 4 p. m.

The Cavaliers of East Stroudsburg will be out to turn the Lehigh-Northampton League into a wide open race today, as Coach Jack Kist has nominated Ray Steele to do the pitching for the home club, against undefeated, in league competition, Pen Argyl. A Pen Argyl loss will mean that every club in the circuit has lost at least one game.

Kist also announced that Jack Sommers would replace John "Juice" Arnet at first base, while Harold White moves into the lineup at second base in place of Sommers. There was also some doubt as to who would handle the left field post, as Harold Litt was absent from school yesterday. It will be Litt in left if he is in school today, otherwise it will be Dick Merring. Leon Alberts will do the catching; Paul "Candy" Miller will be at shortstop; Don France, third base; Marlin "Ducky" Martz, center field, and George Little in right field.

At the present time East Stroudsburg has a record of one victory and the same number of setbacks against league competition.

Stroudsburg on the other hand will be attempting to land its second win, to go with three setbacks. Coach Jerry Stulgatis has nominated Dick Schuster to do the pitching for the Mountaineers, against the team that defeated Emmaus last week. Emmaus took the measure of Stroudsburg on opening day, 1-0.

Ray Hogrelus and Gene Caske will be missing from the lineup, the former, a pitcher, is out for two weeks with mumps, while an injured ankle will keep Caske, regular center fielder, idle until at least Friday.

The revamped outfield will have Jim "Red" Makosky in left field; Alben "Red" Fetherman, center field, and Al Adelmann, right field.

On the infield will be Floyd Williams, first base; Paul "Doc" Lim, second base; Karl Weigartner, shortstop, and Jack Newell, third base. Layton DeHaven will do the catching.

If Schuster should falter along the way, Bill Metzger, a southpaw, will be ready for relief.

Both clubs will also renew their diamond warfare, in their respective leagues, on Friday.

St. Louis At Top In Both Batting Races

New York (AP) — Bob Nieman, 25-year-old St. Louis Browns rookie, and "Peanuts" Lowrey, veteran St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, led the major leagues in hitting yesterday with identical 424 averages.

In sharp contrast, averages through Sunday's games show the 1951 champs way down the list. Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia A's, American League king last year, was hitting .240 and that only after a brisk week-end spurt from 125. Stan Musial of the Cards was having his usual spring troubles, hitting .277.

Hammering Ball

Nieman was proving his '51 late season debut was no flash in the pan. The Tulsa-Oklahoma City grad broke in by hitting two straight home runs at Boston last fall and wound up with .372 for 17 games.

Hammering the ball at a 10 for 22 clip on the Browns' first eastern trip, Nieman overshadowed some of the more highly publicized newcomers. Jim Rivera, for instance, had gone 1-for-21 in the east and slipped to .190.

Nieman's closest opposition for the lead was the shadow of Yankee Gerry Coleman, now serving as a captain in the Marines. Gerry's .405 average still was second best.
